VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1930

8,000 MEN AND WOMEN MASSACRED

Communists Swarm Into Kian, China, Ransacking and Looting the City

MISSIONARIES ARE CAPTURED BY REDS

$10,000,000 Mexican Ransom Money Is Demanded for Their Release

SHANGHAI, Oct. 22.—Eight thousand Chinese men and women have been slaughtered at Kian, Province of Kiangsi, by Communists in an orgy of massacre, looting and burning, said dispatches received today.

The Reds swarmed into Kian on October 6, ransacked the city, plundered and ruthlessly killed 2,000 inhabitants in one day. Thousands of others were slain as the depredations continued. First news of the massacre was brought by Bishop Mignani, of the Italian Lazarist Mission at Kian, who, with a Chinese Lazarist priest, arrived at Kiang today. He had been released by the Reds to attempt to raise $10,000,000 Mexican (about $3,500,000 in gold), as ransom money for fourteen other missionaries held captive at Kian.

ARE SEVERELY BEATEN
Bishop Mignani said he and the Chinese priest, after being severely beaten and paraded through the streets of Kian, left the city on foot on October 14 to obtain aid for their fellow missionaries. These included four Italian priests, four Italian, one French and five Chinese nuns held for ransom at Communist headquarters.

When they left no mission buildings had been fired, but buckets of gasoline had been distributed through the church properties for use should ransom money not be forthcoming, or for other reasons.

DISASTROUS FIRES
Reporting the Red deaths at Kian had reached 8,000, Chinese press dispatches said that immediately after capturing the city, the Communists massacred the residents and started disastrous fires, the flames of which were seen many miles distant for three days.

"So many persons were murdered," said the dispatches, "that virtually a constant stream of bodies was seen floating in the Kian River toward Nanchang. Scenes not describable were enacted."

OVERWHELMED CITY
From Peking, Eastern Kiangsi, French reports that Father Vonnax, French priest, had been murdered. Three thousand Reds, said Chinese press dispatches, overwhelmed the city in a surprise attack. Thousands of terrified inhabitants paid large sums of money to shipowners to take them to Nanking and Kiangsi for safety. Others were murdered by the Reds, who seized two steamers that failed to escape.

Reports stated the Government was having difficulty in forcing the few Nationalist soldiers in Kiangsi to fight the Reds. "Soldiers don't fight," the Nationalist troops permitted looting and slaughter to go on.

NOVA SCOTIA VESSEL SEIZED IN U.S. WATERS WITH BIG RUM CARGO

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The weather-beaten Nova Scotia schooner Thorndyke, believed to be a "mother ship" for rum runners, yielded 1,800 cases of liquor with an estimated value of $150,000, when she was searched here today. She was captured by coastguardmen when she drifted inside the twelve-mile limit to get her bearings off Atlantic City, N.J., yesterday.

Captain Titus Wentzell and his crew of nine men were taken to Hoboken for arraignment before a United States commissioner. With them went Antonine Caran, who said he was picked up at sea. He had $1,000 in his possession and officials believed he was a "pay-off man."

Liberal Criticism Warmly Answered By Hon. R. H. Pooley

Attorney-General Declares Government Has Done More in Two Years Than Liberals Did in Twelve Years in Office—Administration Has Fine Record of Performances

Member Says Ship May Be Built Here

"I VENTURE to say that during the two years that the Conservatives have been in office they have done five times as much for British Columbia as the Liberals accomplished during the entire twelve years of their regime," said Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General for the province, in addressing the crowded annual meeting of the Esquimalt Conservative Association, held in the Conservative rooms of the municipality last night.

Mr. Pooley's address was characterized by some plain speaking regarding a number of attacks made on the Government by T. D. Pattullo, Opposition leader. Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary, and C. H. Dickie, Federal member for the Nanaimo riding, were also on the platform and addressed the meeting. Mr. Dickie intimated that there was a possibility of at least one new ship for the Canadian Government being built here.

PLEDGES BEING KEPT
"This is the first time for four years," said Mr. Pooley, "that Esquimalt has been represented by Conservatives both in the Provincial and Federal Governments. The municipality has not many provincial appointments, but we all know that as far as Federal appointments have been concerned during the past ten years 'no Conservative need apply'."

Mr. Hon. R. B. Bennett, continued the speaker, has already proved himself a man of his word. His critics had suggested that by imposing a tariff to protect the manufacturer he would be injuring the consumer.

OPEN FISHING ON WEST COAST TO GIVE WORK

Hon. S. L. Howe Announces Important Concession to Benefit Fishermen

HERRING REDUCTION WILL BE PERMITTED
Employment to many men on the West Coast of Vancouver Island is expected to result from prompt action taken by Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary and Commissioner of Fisheries. In arranging for the reduction of herring fishing for fish reduction purposes this season as a special emergency measure.

An important announcement to this effect was made yesterday by Mr. Howe, after the successful completion of negotiations he undertook with the authorities at Ottawa. The announcement comes at a time when herring plants are closing down, and large numbers of men would have been out of employment for the winter.

In order to meet the critical unemployment situation in the fisheries of Vancouver Island, and being informed by Dr. Hart, director of the joint Provincial and Dominion herring investigation, that the herring fisheries might be opened for this season without serious biological objection, I wired Hon. E. N. Rhodes, suggesting the opening of that fishery for fish reduction for one season, and am now advised by him that he has issued the necessary instructions to Major J. A. Motherwell, supervisor of Dominion fisheries in British Columbia, to open the herring fisheries for the purposes of fish reduction.

PLANTS WERE CLOSING
"The order will," the commissioner stated, "give employment to many men on the West Coast who otherwise would be themselves idle while the herring reduction is in progress."

TO SEARCH FOR MISSING PARTY
F. Dorbandt, Veteran Pilot, to Lead Expedition Into Liard River District

THREE LOST IN NORTH
HAZELTON, Oct. 22.—Frank Dorbandt, veteran pilot of the Elson and other mercy flights in the Arctic wastes, arrived here today to prepare for an immediate search for Captain E. J. A. Burke, Air-Land Manufacturing company pilot; Mechanic Emil Kading and Bob Marten, prospector, unreported nearly a week in the Liard River district.

Burke took off from Atlin on October 10 to carry "Three-Finger Bob" Marten to the Liard district to consult with his partner, Oscar Anderson, trading post operator, regarding a quartz property in the Atlin district. They were due back in Atlin last week, but no report has been had from them, and it is feared they are "frozen in" by the early ice or may have crashed in the great wilderness of the Liard area.

Dorbandt, who was on his way from Hazelton to Anchorage over a proposed mail route to Alaska, landed at Prince George yesterday, and was called here today to take charge of the Burke search.

IN CRITICAL CONDITION
SEATTLE, Oct. 22.—Henry N. Sanderson, Seattle lumberman, was in a critical condition at a hospital here following an unexplained automobile accident near Three Tree Point yesterday. The car, a high speed patrolman, left the highway, lurched through a field and crashed into a tree 300 feet from the road.

Printing of the voters' list, ballots and all necessary machinery for the taking of the poll have been placed in hand by the Provincial Secretary's Department, under Hon. S. L. Howe.

The by-election is to fill the seat vacated by Captain Ian Mackenzie, Liberal, who resigned on appointment to the Cabinet of Mr. Hon. L. Mackenzie King a few weeks before the last Federal general election. Jack Louie has been named as Conservative candidate for the seat.

Loggers Gather to Study Problems of Timber Production

Delegates From Pacific Coast States and British Columbia Open Sessions at Empress Hotel—Cruise East Coast of Island

A study and endeavor to remedy some of the ills besetting the lumbering industry of the Pacific Coast States and the Province of British Columbia, a group of 250 delegates to the twenty-first annual convention of the Pacific Logging Congress opened sessions in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel yesterday morning at 9 o'clock.

The Pacific Logging Congress, organized in 1909 at Seattle, has grown to one of the most important bodies in the logging industry. Since its organization it has witnessed many changes in the methods of logging, and it has seen the passing of the primitive elements used in the industry and has watched the coming of modern logging machinery. Twenty years ago delegates discussed the innovation of fuel oil, electricity, the creeping of the gasoline engine from the camp to the woods, where it has gone to stay. Such things were only being discussed, the records of the congress show, twenty years ago, and delegates are today, on the coming of age of the congress, discussing what may come within the next twenty years.

Leaving Seattle at 9 o'clock Tuesday night, the party of delegates from all the logging provinces of the Pacific Coast States and the Province of British Columbia, which included the traveling headquarters of the congress aboard the Canadian Pacific steamship Princess Elizabeth, arrived in Victoria yesterday morning.

The convention was officially opened by President L. H. Mills following the address of Mayor Henry Anson, who welcomed the delegates.

PREMIER WILL SEEK WOOLEN MILLS FOR B.C.

Cables One Firm Which Has Made Start in Moving Plants to Canada

DOMINION'S TARIFF ATTRACTS INDUSTRY

Premier S. F. Tolmie, hearing from Ottawa that several old-established textile firms were considering moving from the Old Country as a result of foreign competition, is taking prompt steps to place before them the natural advantages offered by British Columbia for the manufacture of woollen goods. The Premier is cableing G. H. Hirst & Co. Ltd., of Birmmham, and Dewbury, which firm has already announced that they will close their mill in England and place and transfer the plant to Canada. He is issuing instructions to several departments of the Government to bring all possible information in connection with the woollen industry up to date. This information will be forwarded to the Premier for his consideration in London, to be placed before the heads of the woollen industry there.

INDUSTRY GROWING
"With a sheep population of the province increasing at a most satisfactory rate, with a climate admirably suited for woollen manufacturing, and likewise with water of the utmost purity obtainable," said the Premier, "British Columbia offers excellent opportunities—not excelled anywhere in the world—for the production of cloth."

In the past three years in the development of the sheep industry a most important factor has been the fact that in 1927 there were 130,000 sheep, while in 1929 there were 205,323. The wool clip in 1927 was valued at $166,161, and last year it had risen to $244,167.

BRAZIL REBELS MAKE ADVANCES ON ALL FRONTS

Insurgents Take Prisoners, Rifles and Machine Guns at Passa Quatro

LARGE FEDERAL FORCE BEATEN AT CRUZEIRO

CURITIBA, Parana, Brazil, Oct. 22.—Steady advances on all fronts, especially in the Sao Paulo-Parana area, in the region of the railway connecting the two Federal strongholds, Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, were claimed today by Brazilian revolutionary headquarters.

Getulio Vargas, generalissimo of the rebel campaign, today telegraphed the president of the rebel state, Minas Gerais, that revolutionary forces had broken the Federal lines in Sao Paulo-Parana at Itarare and other points.

(Communications from Rio de Janeiro assert the strongly fortified Federal line running through Itarare, Ribeira and Curitiba is resisting all attacks.)

OCCUPY CRUZEIRO
Another battle sector is near the junction of the states of Minas Gerais, Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro. In that vicinity rebel light horse yesterday occupied Cruzeiro, an important railway communication between Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro. A large Federal force was defeated.

Today a strong revolutionary army under Lieut.-Col. Gabriel Marks took upon a company of Federal infantry and two companies of Sao Paulo state police near Passa Quatro, defeating them decisively. Passa Quatro is a trifle north of Cruzeiro and also is an important railway point in the region between the two great Federal cities.

In this battle the rebels claimed the capture of many prisoners, including a Major Newton and three officers, the wounding of a number of Federal soldiers and the capture of rifles and machine guns.

EMBARGO IS DECREED
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—At the request of the Brazilian Government, President Hoover today placed an embargo on the shipment of munitions and equipment to Brazil except under licenses granted by the Department of State. The Brazilian Government's request was contained in a note handed to Secretary Stimson by Brazilian Ambassador Amaral.

In effect, the embargo prevents the sale of arms or equipment to any Brazilian excepting the Brazilian Government. It would prevent shipments by private American manufacturers of munitions to insurgent forces.

PROPOSAL IS REJECTED BY JEWISH BODY

National Council Votes Against British Statement of Policy for Palestine

WILL NOT TAKE PART IN LEGISLATIVE BODY

Says Plan Calculated to End Building Up Jewish National Home

JERUSALEM, Oct. 22.—The Jewish National Council voted unanimously tonight to reject the British statement of policy for Palestine and decreed against participation in the proposed legislative council.

The British proposal, the council declared after an eight-hour session, is calculated to "end the building up of the Jewish national home." Another resolution voted for participation in the protest of Dr. Chaim Weizmann against what he charges is the British Government's breach of promise to the Jews.

HISTORIC PLEDGE
The Jewish Telegraphic Agency says the proclamation asserts the British Government's declaration violated the historic pledge of the British people, assumed with regard to the Jews. The statement, the Jewish National Council charges, is "barren of constructive phrases and violates the undertaking regarding the Jewish National Home, which was given to the entire Jewish people and to the Jewish community of Palestine."

"The national home without immigration and land is a cruel jest and political hypocrisy," the statement continues. "The Jewish community in Palestine rejects in this case the will of the British people. The right to constitute the Jewish National Home was confirmed by the League of Nations and reaffirmed by all British Governments since the Balfour declaration."

"The Jewish community in Palestine will not take any part in parliamentary institutions calculated to arrest the establishment of the Jewish National Home. The prosperity and progress of the Arab population in Palestine are linked with Jewish immigration and colonization, and with all the activities of the British administration."

APPEAL TO WORLD
"We consider co-operation with our present rulers as a betrayal of the guarantee for the continued prosperity of the peace of the country. We appeal to the English people and the entire civilized world to vindicate our rights, and we urge the Jewish people in all countries to stand fast."

The Arabs here have not taken a stand on the British report.

Probe Into Ship Crash On Tuesday

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Sir John Simon, British jurist, will begin on Tuesday next the holding of a public inquiry into the loss of Britain's giant ship, R-101, destroyed October 5, in France with the loss of forty-eight lives.

With him will sit two assessors, Lieut.-Col. J. T. G. Moore-Brabazon and Prof. Charles E. Inglis, the one a pioneer motorist, and the other an Englishman actually to leave the ground in an airplane; the first a foremost expert in all problems relating to mechanics in Britain.

The central and most important point before the court will be simply "Why did the R-101 crash?"

The sessions of the investigators will be held in the Law Courts. They will be open to the public. Intense interest is expected to be developed by the investigation.

MME. GALLI-CURCI IS BRUISED IN ACCIDENT

Members of Her Party Badly Shaken Up When Car Overturns Near Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Oct. 22.—Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci was badly bruised and suffered a severe shaking up here tonight when the automobile, bearing among others the famous soprano and her husband, Homer Samuels, overturned. Their chauffeur swerved to avoid collision with another car and lost control.

The singer's car barely scraped past, but overtook the road and somersaulted into a ditch, while every member of the party was badly shaken up. None were seriously injured. A passing car picked up the soprano's party and brought them back to Birmingham.

Galli-Curci made light of the incident, and announced she would carry out her programme here on Thursday night and all subsequent engagements.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

WINNIPEG, Oct. 22.—Reaching to pick up his ammunition which he had left near the bank of a creek, Robert L. McGill, of Winnipeg, slipped on the muddy ground and his rifle discharged its contents into his chest, killing him. Mr. McGill, former assistant manager of the Ford Motor Company here, was duck hunting near Scattered Bay, Man., when the accident occurred.

CONCRETE RESULTS ANTICIPATED FROM IMPERIAL MEETING

While British Government Has Not Answered Canada's Proposals, Establishment of Quota Plan Is Expected to Win Favor—Dominion Experts Demand Credit for Wheat Shipments

United States Credited With Dominion's Exports of Grain

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Imperial Conference begins to give true promise of a practical result in the betterment of Empire trade. Among the various delegations tonight there was a feeling of confidence that something concrete would be accomplished. The imposition of taxes on foreign food products by the British Government, with a view to giving preference to the Dominions, as proposed by Canada, is accepted as virtually out of the question after the pronouncements of certain ministers of the Labor Government.

QUOTAS FAVORED
The more likely course is believed to be the establishment by Great Britain of some system of quota purchasing, giving preference to Dominion products.

The British Cabinet was closed in its weekly conference today, so the proceedings of the Imperial Conference were confined to discussion of technical subjects by the routine subcommittees.

END IN SIGHT
Such questions as the form of commercial treaties were being considered, along with a mass of statistics. It is expected now that the conference will conclude about November 12. There is still no indication of when the British Government will make its formal reply to the Canadian preference proposals.

FIGURES CONFUSED
Today, a subcommittee of British, Canadian and Australian statistical experts was appointed to solve an odd conflict in official statistics which must be straightened out before the United Kingdom can fix preferential quotas for Empire wheat on the British market.

The quota system finally receive the approval of the conference. The figures chiefly at issue are those of the British Board of Trade, Canada and the United Kingdom. Canadian statistics give last year's exports of wheat from Canada to the United Kingdom as 122,000,000 bushels; the British Board of Trade returns show only 30,000,000 bushels received. The real figure lies somewhere between the two; possibly it will be around 80,000,000 bushels.

The subcommittee's task is to reach an accurate figure. It is highly important in its direct bearing on any percentage quota which the British Government might allot to Canadian imports. British experts, it is understood, estimate the average amount of Canadian wheat reaching the United Kingdom at 30 per cent of the total consumption. But this percentage is based on the Board of Trade returns. The Canadian contention is that these returns are too low; that Canada actually supplies more than 32 per cent. The British experts admit the Board of Trade figures arise largely from the diversion of Canadian grain in transit through the United States and its subsequent classification in the United Kingdom as American wheat.

NUMEROUS FIREMEN ARE THOUGHT DEAD

Fire Breaks Out in Theatre, and Roof Collapses—Explosion of Film Starts Blaze

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Oct. 22.—Fire broke out today in the Olmedo Theatre and the flames swept rapidly through the structure. First reports did not state whether there were any casualties.

The roof of the theatre collapsed. It is believed numerous firemen were caught beneath the falling roof and killed. The theatre building was almost entirely destroyed, but the flames were kept from seriously damaging nearby structures.

The fire started in a projection room. A film was being run off in a preview before being exhibited tonight.

An explosion of film was said by the fire officials to have started the blaze.

RESIGNS FROM POST
BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 22.—Enrique Santamarina, Vice-President of the Provisional Government, announced early today that he was resigning his post. He assigned illness as the reason.

LORD BROTHERTON DEAD
LONDON, Oct. 22.—Lord Brotherton, first Baron of Wakefield, died today after a brief illness. He was seventy-four. He was the founder of extensive chemical manufacturing works, with plants throughout England and Scotland.

Provincial Rights Are Debated at Conference

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Before the Imperial Conference committee under Lord Balfour, Lord High Chancellor, Canada is making a stand for provincial rights. Hon. Maurice Dupre, Canadian Solicitor-General, supporting the views held by Premier Ferguson and Taschereau, of Ontario and Quebec, respectively, holds the provinces must first be consulted before any amendments can be made to the British North America Act.

The question arose in the consideration by the committee of the recommendations of the 1929 conference on operation of Dominion laws.

In effect, the Canadian delegates stand opposed to its logical conclusion would lead to an interprovincial conference or some other mode of consultation before final action on the report of the 1929 conference.

Critics of these recommendations claim they go farther than mere repeal of the Colonial Laws Validity Act; that in effect they authorize amendment to the Canadian Constitution. Premier Ferguson and Taschereau both took the ground that as Canadian Confederation was a pact between the provinces, the Constitution cannot be amended without the consent of the provinces. Hon. Maurice Dupre is understood to be supporting this view in the committee deliberations.

ONTARIO STRIKE MAY BE RICHEST IN YEARS

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Indications that the recent discovery of gold in the Maitland area, on the boundary of the townships of Argyle and Bannockburn, may prove one of the richest finds in recent years in Ontario, is seen in a report made by H. C. Rickaby, geologist for the Department of Mines, who has just returned from a tour of inspection. Claim staking is going on briskly, and though there is snow on the ground, many prospectors are on the spot. Mr. Rickaby brought back a number of samples which are being assayed, and he will report the result of these to the department as a matter of record.

HERTZOG SAYS BRITAIN MUST REVOLUTIONIZE HER FISCAL PRACTICE

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Gen. J. B. M. Hertzog, Premier of the South African Union, in a radio broadcast tonight said "it should not be forgotten that what is expected from Britain in order to meet Dominion requirements, and also her own, is hardly less than a revolution in fiscal practice and economic theory."

Conflict between protection and free trade for Britain, he said, would have to be fought out again, but however the decision went and however disappointed the Dominions might be at the result they would have "no ground to quarrel with anybody."

HON. E. RYCKMAN FINISHES WORK IN COAST AREA

Tariff Officials Are Returning to Ottawa After Visit to City

PREMIER ENTERTAINS DOMINION MINISTER

Much pleased with the practical interest shown in tariff affairs on the part of Victoria delegations that waited on him here, Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue and Acting Minister of Finance, and party left for Vancouver on the afternoon boat yesterday, after a busy three-day visit in the city.

Completing final details of its mission yesterday morning, the party paid a visit to the drydock at Esquimalt, where members were shown the huge graving basin and its facilities. R. W. Broadner, commissioner of customs; H. B. McKinnon, acting commissioner of tariffs; and David Slim, capable secretary to the minister, accompanied Mr. Ryckman to the Coast.

While in the city the party heard upwards of twenty delegations, mostly of an individual nature, or those with suggestions to offer on matters affecting the general revision of the Canadian tariff planned for next Spring. In addition, D. B. Plunkett, member for Victoria in the Federal House, took up a number of points with Mr. Ryckman. A general inspection of customs offices was also carried out by officials in the party.

The Minister of National Revenue was the luncheon guest of Premier and Mrs. S. F. Tolmie, at their home yesterday at a private function, before leaving passage on the afternoon boat for the Mainland. Hon. E. B. Ryckman will remain for a day or two longer in British Columbia before returning East, en route to Ottawa, where his party is due on November 8.

delegates to Victoria, and Mayor M. G. Tennant, of Tacoma, who gave an address in response to the Victoria welcome.

In his address Mayor Ansonm said that he fully appreciated the importance of the lumbering industry in British Columbia and the neighboring states. He said that in British Columbia there were 4,000 firms dealing in the manufacture of raw materials from the products of the forest and that about 50 per cent of the labor was connected with the lumbering industry. To our view, he said, the lumbering industry is the backbone of the West, and the line I can say that our interests in the logging business are identical with yours, and we recognize that the happy national relationships which exist between Canada and the United States have been strengthened and continued through the business associations which have stood for so many years between the lumbermen of the West, who are the true pioneers of this great country," said the Mayor.

"From the economic viewpoint it is not always fully appreciated," continued His Worship, "what the lumbering industry means to the people of the West and to the whole of this continent. In Canada the products from our forests are a primary value rank second only to our wheat crop, and from the point of view of labor, I should imagine it stands first. About one in three persons living in the Pacific Coast area is dependent upon the lumbering industry for a livelihood."

MAYOR OF TACOMA

In response to the address of welcome from Mayor Ansonm, Mayor Tennant, of Tacoma, expressed his sincere appreciation on behalf of the delegates for the kind reception accorded the visitors on their arrival in Victoria. Mayor Tennant said that it has been frequently stated that the lumbering industry had been seriously affected by the general depression of business throughout the world, but he ventured to say the contrary. "The Northwest were not nearly so bad as some would have them appear. We do not at times fully appreciate the lumbering industry and its relation to the welfare of the country. I think I might safely say that the lumbering group is one of the least appreciated of any group of industries in the United States. It may be because we have so much timber and the general impression has been created that, because there is lots, all that is required is to go after it. You are here to study the problems of the lumbermen on the Pacific Coast, and no doubt there are many problems," said the Mayor. Mr. Tennant, in concluding, advised the delegates to see as much of Victoria as possible during the stay, as he considered, there was no finer place on the Pacific Coast, "Victoria is the most beautiful city I have ever had the privilege to visit."

MORNING SESSION

In his address to the congress, President Mills stated: "Many of the problems in the pine country are similar to those in the fir country, and it is hoped that the program, applies equally well to both regions, but, realizing there are certain differences, arrangements have been made to hold a pine conference aside from the regular convention. In this way we hope to meet the varying conditions."

Mr. Mills, in referring to the congress agenda said: "There are certain basic questions which concern every one of us, whether manager, superintendent or foreman. We are suffering from the same depression as other industries and other parts of the world. How long will it last and what steps can be taken to combat it? A year ago last Spring, the Secretary of the Timber Melody said: 'Buy bonds'; but how little heed was given to his warning we all know, and we know equally well of the break in October, 1929. A year ago Colonel Greely advocated voluntary curtailment of the production of fir lumber before the law of supply and demand forced it upon

THE "CHINK" OF CHINA BAR

There's a tale they tell of the Cariboo. In the rush of 'Fifty-eight. Of a "Chink" and gold and an old canoe. In the place they call Hell's Gate. Where the Fraser kicks and curses. To crowd her mud-ringed froth. Through a pass where the "Canyon" purses. And butts the river's wrath. And shakes it by the shoulders; Then hurls it loose, again. To thrash around the boulders. Like something gone insane.

And here came "green-born" Cantonese. Gold-mad, to try their luck. Beside the "Sourdough," and freeze. When Western blizzards struck. And here, it was, these pig-tailed "punks" Did lade a slim canoe. With gold, for the city's "safety-bunks" And start it gaily, through. The "Gate," with a lonely "coolie." Who dipped his paddle, bold. In hell, nor guessed what a fool he had been. Till his blood ran cold. When the sombre "Canyon's" growling Pronounced his slender odds. And set him madly howling. To a thousand beathen Gods; And the whirlpool, hungry, steaming. Did spin him, like 'twas glad. To hear his awful screaming. And watch him going mad.

For, mad he was, and scorned the line They threw, for an hour and a half. 'Til a cowboy, passing, twirled the twine And roped him, like a calf. And hauled him up, a snarling wreck. A man come back from hell. And they slung a halter round his neck. And he died in a padded cell.

And the gold canoe...? 'Twas empty, found. Where still the evening star. Winks down, on a stretch of shifting ground— They call it "China Bar."

And the Fraser...? It's still raving. And full of gold, as when That hapless "Chink" was braving. A place that laughs at men.

the industry, but no effective curtailment obtained until April of this year.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

"We in the logging branch of the industry are dependent upon the demand for logs of the mills, and they in turn upon the demand for lumber. A curtailment to a production basis of 46 per cent of capacity is a painful process, but it has brought results, as shown by the fact that for three months the mills have received orders in excess of production. This is of necessity a preliminary step to a firmer price for logs and eventually an increased demand. "But how long will the law of supply and demand have a stranglehold on the industry?"

"Before closing I want to mention the work of the white code committee, one of the most important of the year. "The work of the white code committee has resulted in a standardization of white code lumber leads and locomotive signs for high utilization committee secures a continued appropriation of $25,000 from Congress for the study of the pulp possibilities of Western woods by the Forest Products Laboratory of Madison, Wis., President Mills concluded.

Secretary A. Whitman gave a brief report in which he stated that the work of the Congress since the last session and announced the arrival of the machinery group scheduled for Friday at Esquimalt. 218 delegates were registered aboard the Princess Elizabeth on leaving Seattle and that another fifty were expected by tonight in time for the cruise.

LEAKS ARE CHEAPER

The first business on the very lengthy programme of addresses and papers opened was the discussion of "Leaking Lines and Leaking Logs," led by Robert J. Filberg, Comox Logging & Railway Company, Headquarters, B.C., who said that the leakage of logs from the forest to the mill is a costly business. "We have found that it costs more to plug the leaks than to have them with us." As an example of this he cited an instance of saving oil, grease or lubricant on engines. It was tried, engineers threw up their jobs, new engines were obtained, the saving was effected, but the cost was high. "We are not in logging time wasted. His address was punctuated with humorous episodes of the logging business. A general discussion and questions continued.

Organizing the engineering work and the value of maps was discussed following a paper by E. T. Clark, Everett, Wash. Mr. Clark's paper was on "Cutting Lines and Picking Spots." The title of an address given by Lester E. Calder, Mineral, Wash. Paul E. Freytag concluded the morning papers, leading a discussion on railroad construction. The papers were, for the most part, of a technical nature, dealing with methods used and comparison of costs.

Prior to the noon adjournment the following committees were announced. Nominations, Paul Freytag, Washington; Orville Miller, Oregon; Robert Filberg, British Columbia; resolutions, O. M. Cornwall, Roy F. Morse and Huntington Taylor.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Yesterday afternoon's session was taken up with the presentation of papers dealing with the various problems of logging with discussions following each paper. As in the morning session the papers were mostly of a technical nature, the subject of the study of labor saving devices of importance to the industry rather than a discussion of markets, advertising and closer utilization of materials. The programme was opened with a paper by E. C. MacGregor, of Boise, Idaho, who dealt with costs of operation and methods of operation of caterpillars and McMillan graders. The "Use and Abuse of Idleness" was the subject of a paper by Russell Mills, of the Sauk River Company, of Everett, Wash. Mr. Mills gave comparative costs of incline operation and switchback according

Lester Patrick Is Optimistic About Chances in N.H.L. Race This Season

HAS FORTY PLAYERS AT TRAINING CAMP

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Some forty players of the New York Rangers, of the National Hockey League, and the Springfield Indians, of the Canadian League were in town, training at the Ravina rink today. The Indians have been there for some days, but today was the opening day of training for the Rangers, and Manager Lester Patrick was very optimistic about their chances in the championship race when spoken to today.

All of the Rangers' regulars, with the exception of the Cook brothers, Bill and Bunney, and Ching Johnson, were among those present, and these three are expected to report tomorrow morning. Among the regulars who reported were: Goalkeepers John Ross, Roach, Alfie Moore and Andy Akend. Others were Bill Regan, Frank Boucher, Murray Murdoch, "Obi" Heximer, Dutch Keeling and Leo Bourgeois.

Patrick has a raft of new players trying out, in addition to those bought or traded during the Summer, among whom are Dick Benson, of the Toronto Mercantile League; Bert Clayton and Gordon Grant, of the Canadian team that toured Europe last year; C. A. Saunders, of Quebec; and a number of others.

This theory had been definitely disproved when Mr. Bennett had imposed a tariff on glass and upon the development of a tendency to profiteer under that protection, he had wiped out the duty overnight. This action was a sure indication that Mr. Bennett would not tolerate any unfair methods on the part of manufacturers.

ANSWERS CRITICISM

Mr. Pattullo, said Mr. Pooley, had made the statement that there was reason for "less confidence in the administration of justice under the present Attorney-General than ever before."

"I can only say," said Mr. Pooley, "that I took charge of the department determined that its administration should be absolutely clean and above board. I leave the matter to be judged by the people of British Columbia."

Referring to a recent case of the "confidence trick" practised by three Americans who had robbed an aged couple of their entire savings of $10,000, Mr. Pooley said that one of them had been arrested and had offered to return all that was left of the money, which amounted to $7,500.

"It was extremely improbable that there would be sufficient evidence to send this man to prison, and he was released in order that the victims might save the bulk of their money," said Mr. Pooley.

Mr. Pattullo, however, says that it is obvious that any crook can come to British Columbia and "film" the Government. I have to smile when I hear the expression "film-film" from a man who promised to spend $80,000 on an irrigation project which ultimately cost $45,000.

LIBERAL PRESS

It will become any portion of the Liberal press, said Mr. Pooley, to question the Conservative Government as to what it had attained in the way of achievement, having regard to the achievements of the party which it supported.

"When we took office," he said, "we had an overdraft at the bank of $12,000,000. We have now, and discovered that a further $3,000,000 of trust money had been spent. The first thing which we had to do was to borrow money to replace the trust funds where they properly belonged."

"If a big trust company had behaved in the same way as the Liberal Government, the directors of the company, the directors would have gone to jail."

Referring to press comments that the present Government had not fulfilled its pledges, the speaker dealt with each criticism in detail. The Government had assisted the lumber industry, which was in a very bad way. The power development of the province had been doubled in the last two years; the Spanish strawberry industry had been subsidized by a process which made the fruit saleable at all times of the year, with the result that the demand in Canada alone was now greater than the supply.

Referring to the wine industry, Mr. Pooley stated that 150 tons of grapes had this year been shipped from the upper country to the wineries, and that next year's shipment would be 400 tons. The seed industry at Chemainus flats had also been subsidized by the Government.

It had been stated, went on the speaker, that Premier Tolmie had pledged himself to do away with succession duties. This criticism was absolutely untrue. The only pledge that Premier Tolmie gave was that the duties should be reduced as rapidly as possible.

It was a significant fact that these duties had been increased by the Liberal Government, which had even put a tax on insurance policies paid to the widows and orphans.

"I throw these statements back in the teeth of the Liberal press," said Mr. Pooley.

Referring to the country which would be opened up by the completion of the P.E.G.E. Mr. Pooley pointed out that the Liberal Government had started to discuss the matter without knowing anything about it. Recently a thorough survey had been made of the resources and possibilities of the country, two-thirds of the cost of which had been borne by the Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian National Railway, which had both become deeply interested in the project.

ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS

"Our administrative expenditure," said Mr. Pooley, "has been cut down in many respects. With regard to the administration of the Liquor Act, I am sorry to say that this has not been altogether clean and unimpaired in the past. I can assure you that it will be in the future. The liquor turnover is $18,000,000 a year, and $30,000 is not a great deal to spend on administration, when we have three men of absolute integrity at the head of affairs."

"The Government had borrowed money to give relief to the unemployed. The P.E.G.E. and improvement of roads. If Mr. Pattullo had his way we should only have had one-third of that money and 5,000 men in this province would have starved."

P.G.E. PROMISES

Hon. S. L. Howe also refuted statements made by the Leader of the Opposition, "Mr. Pattullo," he said, "evidently feels that he can say what he likes. He takes the credit for originating the recent P.G.E. election proposal. I would remind him that in 1922, 1924 and 1928 the Liberals promised to complete the P.G.E., simply as election propaganda. Now Mr. Pattullo holds out the same bribe to the people of North Vancouver. It is not likely, however, that they will allow themselves to be fooled by a man who is so proud of promises which he does not intend to keep."

"The Liberals have spent $20,000,000 of the public's money on wild projects. The Province lost over four million dollars on the Sumas scheme alone. Today nearly all of that district, which has hitherto cost the Province $70,000 yearly, has been sold to taxpayers who will carry on agriculture."

FEDERAL MEMBER HEARD

Mr. Dickie, in addressing the meeting, referred to Mr. Hon. R. B. Bennett, in glowing terms. The Prime Minister, he said, was felt by those who sat behind him at Ottawa to be the finest man that Canada had ever produced.

Canada had been flirting with prosperity for the past nine years, but the speaker felt that the Dominion would now receive a yearly sum of $250,000,000 which had hitherto gone from Canada to the United States.

Mr. Dickie's suggestion of Reeve Erick's said that it was obvious that Esquimalt, owing to Federal tax exemptions which cut her receipts in half, should receive a special grant for unemployment from the Dominion Government, and he thought that this grant would be secured.

A hydrographic steamer costing $750,000 and a steamer for light-house work were about to be built. "If at least one of these boats is not built either in Esquimalt or in Victoria."

OFFICERS ELECTED

Reeve James Erick, president of the association; S. R. Bowden, vice-president, and D. A. Henry, secretary, were all re-elected by acclamation. The following will form the executive for the coming year:

R. A. Anderson, C. H. Smith, P. Cooke, Miss A. Pooley, Mrs. A. Bowden, T. Hadfield, E. V. Finland, V. G. Barton, A. E. Cave, F. Whart, J. Quinn and A. Lockley.

Excellent vocal and instrumental numbers were given during the course of the evening by Councillor F. Morgan, Mr. Pullen, Mrs. S. Bowden and E. Impett.

LAUDS SPIRIT MANIFESTED BY COAST CITIES

Lieut.-Governor Says Inter-relationship Between Provinces Is More Evident

HOPE IS EXPRESSED FOR WEST COAST ROAD

The luncheon meeting of the representatives of the Vancouver Board of Trade and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, held yesterday at noon in the auditorium of the local body, was described by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor as "a wonderful example of the community spirit which is more and more manifest throughout the Dominion of Canada."

"The president of the local chamber, F. B. Fowler, who presided, greeted the delegation from Vancouver as coming 'on a mission of good will.' He alluded to the fact that he was himself a member of the Vancouver Board of Trade as well as being president of the local chamber."

In introducing the Lieutenant-Governor, Mr. Fowler paid a compliment to the part the former had had in the industrial development of British Columbia, and to the interest he manifested in the commercial affairs of the province.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

Hon. J. Randolph Bruce, in following up the reference to the manifestation of community spirit shown by the gathering said that more and more the idea of interrelationship among the provinces of Canada was being manifested. The failure of the sale of wheat last year had brought this prominently forward. That had resulted in the lessening of the sale of coal, in the cutting off of railway traffic and in a state of unemployment.

His Honor said that history was but repeating itself at the present, and referred to the conditions that prevailed in the Old Land following the Napoleonic wars. Overproduction had been followed at that time by a drop in the price of grain in England, with consequent unemployment and discontent, as was true today. Speculations collapsed and about the time of the repeal of the Corn Laws there was a large exodus from the Old Land.

With similar conditions today, statements were gathered from the various Dominions and racking their brains to find a solution. He hoped it would be found.

William Floyd Is Found Not Guilty On Murder Charge

FERMIE, Oct. 22.—William Floyd, charged with the murder of Dennis Greenwood, game warden of Canal Flats, was found not guilty, on account of insanity at the time the crime was committed, by a jury sitting at the criminal assize court, Mr. Justice Murphy presiding.

The jury deliberated slightly over an hour before bringing in their verdict.

His lordship charged the jury for nearly two hours, reviewing the evidence very carefully and fully explaining the law, laying particular stress upon the legal definitions of insanity, which was the plea entered by defence counsel.

VISITORS ARE IN AGREEMENT ON COAST ROAD

Vancouver Business Men Are Shown Advantages of Such a Highway

LARGE DELEGATION
SPENT DAY IN CITY

The good will visit yesterday of the members of the Vancouver Board of Trade to Victoria on the invitation of the local Chamber of Commerce was pronounced a grand success by the guests and their hosts. The opportunity was afforded the visitors to hear the illustrated address of Claude L. Harrison dealing with the West Coast road from this city to Hamilton.

In addition to this, through the good offices of the city members of the Legislature, the extent of the coast represented by such a route was opened to view through the medium of a series of maps prepared from airplane photos. These views are now in possession of the Department of Public Works of the province and were loaned to the chamber for the purpose of allowing an inspection to be made. The views were placed together so as to show the whole stretch of the waterfront with the character of the country immediately back of it.

Following the conference the visitors were unanimous in their expression of agreement with the chamber that such a highway would be of inestimable advantage in connection with the tourist trade in the province. This conference was held starting at 11 o'clock and was followed by the luncheon at which the representatives of the two commercial bodies were served in the auditorium of the chamber.

In the afternoon, on the invitation of His Honor, the Lieutenant-Governor, the visitors and their hosts were entertained at afternoon tea at Government House.

Advantage was taken also of the opportunity to play a number of games of golf and to show the visitors about the city and its environs. The afternoon was left largely open so that the members of the Vancouver Board of Trade might enjoy themselves as they wished.

The return trip to Vancouver was made by the steamer Princess Joan last night.

Will Continue as Alberta Governor Until Next April

EDMONTON, Oct. 22.—Hon. Dr. William A. Rutherford will continue as Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta until April 1, 1931.

Today His Honor was notified from Ottawa that his five-year term, which expired this month, had been extended. He was asked to continue in office owing to Premier Bennett's absence in England, and has consented to do so.

COURT HEARS DISPUTE OVER TAKING HOLIDAY

In the County Court yesterday Judge Lammiman heard evidence in the case of Cooper vs. Shawinigan Lake Lumber Company. The plaintiff claimed a monetary wage in lieu of notice of his dismissal as storekeeper by W. H. Munsey, the president of the company. The case turned on whether the plaintiff, E. Cooper, had the right to take a day off to visit Victoria, which he said was the understanding when he was engaged, or whether he should get permission from Mr. Munsey. His Honor reserved judgment. R. A. Wootton appeared for the plaintiff and J. S. Yates for the defendant.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored, and their distressing symptoms relieved. The medicine is taken in the form of a small tablet, and is so simple and pleasant that it can be prepared at home, and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist a 1-oz. bottle of Epsom's Salts (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it a 1/2 pint of hot water and a little sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Persons used in this way not only relieve the inflammation of the middle ear, but also the irritation of the throat, and the result is that the hearing is restored and the distressing symptoms are relieved.

Very persons who have catarrh in any form should give this preparation a trial.

BUSINESS GOOD

C. E. Tisdall, who said he had been visiting Victoria for forty-two years, said that the magnetic setting of the city was a delightful one. He expressed the opinion that Victoria was standing the present stress of business better than any other city he had visited recently.

In referring to the address of Mr. Harrison earlier in the day, covering the route of the proposed West Coast road, the speaker said that he had no idea of the country between here and Bamfield. He expressed the hope that the road would soon be built, with the wonderful possibilities for Victoria in the tourist line.

F. E. Burke, dealing with the salmon industry, said that the fishing industry was thankful for the consideration shown it by the present Provincial Government and the attention which Hon. S. L. Howe, as the minister in charge, had shown. He said that there were 20,000 people employed in the industry, which would, this year, represent a production valued at $16,000,000. The cost of the supplies was practically all expended in the province, with the exception of the tinplate, which came from England, and which was largely offset by the purchases made by the people of Great Britain.

MORAN IS ARRESTED IN SMALL ROADHOUSE

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The law caught up with George "Bugs" Moran Monday, harassing him with such charges as vagrancy and carrying concealed weapons, and questioning him about numerous slayings and other major crimes.

The search that started June 9, when Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter, fell mortally wounded in a pedestrian tunnel, ended early today in a small roadhouse west of Waukegan, Ill. The Lake County (Waukegan) State's attorney and five private detectives made the raid, and Moran, after he saw how it was, made no resistance.

Moran told reporters in Waukegan that the vagrancy charge was ridiculous. He further said he had been out of the booze business and all other rackets for four years. "I have been going straight and I intend to go straight."

ONTARIO BUILDING IN ENGLAND OPENED

Premier G. Howard Ferguson Officially at Ceremony in Empire Metropolis

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The magnificent new Ontario building, headquarters of the Canadian province's activity in Great Britain, was formally opened Monday by Premier G. Howard Ferguson. He paid tribute to the capabilities of W. C. Noxon, Agent-General for Ontario in London for the past ten years, and declared the splendid new building was largely Mr. Noxon's conception.

"I must say the Ontario's position and opportunities are only typical of the whole of Canada," Premier Ferguson remarked after the opening of the building. "Our great desire is that more people of the British Isles should share the great constructive programme that lies ahead of us; that more of your capital should find its way to Ontario; that more of our kith and kin should join in the great work of Empire expansion to which we are striving to contribute substantially."

"This new building is a tangible evidence of our abiding faith in the future of the Empire, our determination to become interwoven in its very fabric and life."

SECOND CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED TO KEEP IMPLACABLE AFLOAT

For a second time an effort is being made to raise funds to keep H.M.S. Implacable, the oldest warship afloat, still above the water, according to information received from Major F. V. Longstaff. This time the campaign was started by the Lord Mayor of London at the Mansion House on Tuesday. The sum needed is $25,000.

In 1925 Lord Beatty organized a similar fund and was successful in raising $25,000, which was sufficient to keep the craft afloat. It is understood at the present time that the Implacable is sadly in need of repair, and unless the money is raised, the ship will be broken up.

POLITICAL PRISON FOR SPANISH FLYER

Accused of Publishing Article Which Attacked Liberal and Other Elements

MADRID, Oct. 22.—Capt. Ignacio Jimenez, Spanish transatlantic flyer, was arrested Monday and placed in the Madrid military prison pending the outcome of charges that he made political declarations while in military service.

Captain Jimenez was recently the author of a violent article published in the newspaper A-B-C, attacking all Liberal and political elements. A law prohibits military men from writing in newspapers on other than technical subjects, and forbids their making political declarations or otherwise mixing in politics.

Captain Jimenez and Francisco Iglesias flew from Seville to South America in March, 1929. Major Ramon Franco, another transatlantic flyer, is still held in the prison where Captain Jimenez is now confined. Major Franco was arrested on October 12, presumably for republican declarations attributed to him and published in a Cordoba newspaper.

THE P.G.E. PROBLEM

The hopes expressed by Dr. S. F. Tolmie that the Pacific Great Eastern Railway problem is nearing solution will be a matter of satisfaction to all the people of British Columbia. The Premier has done a good deal of spadework to bring about the disposal of this railway, and the hopes raised in the course of negotiations justify no further building of the road towards Prince George being undertaken at this time. If the Government can sell the railway, and in doing so arrange for its completion and its continuation into the Peace River district, it will have accomplished an excellent stroke of business for the province.

Immediately on assuming office Premier Tolmie set to work to bring about a state of conditions where the P.G.E. would be looked upon favorably as an asset in provincial development. The Government and the two transcontinental railway companies have had a survey made of the lands contiguous to the railway, reports prepared on their possibilities for settlement and industrial purposes and much information collected that was not hitherto available. That information is now in possession of the Government and the railway companies. It is of a most encouraging character and as an outcome there are, as Dr. Tolmie has said, good hopes that the problem, which has been before the people for so many years, will be solved. What the character of that solution will be it would be premature to say. The people, however, can take the Premier's word that his efforts are giving every prospect of reaching a happy conclusion.

COMMUNISTS AT PORT ARTHUR

The disturbances at Port Arthur may be the direct result of circumstances that have apparently swelled the rank and file of those men and women who are being taken advantage of by agitators who have certain ends to attain. It would appear from the reports that the Communist leaders—and there are numerous devotees to that cult at the Head of the Lakes—have become the leaders of the unemployed and have seized upon their helplessness in the face of lack of employment to enlist them within their ranks. Last winter two "organizers" of the Lumber Workers' Union lost their lives while on a visit to some of the timber camps north of the city. The bodies of these men were found in the Spring, and, it was agreed that they had lost their lives in attempting to cross the ice on a lake that was declared unsafe. Taking advantage of the situation a public funeral was held in which some thousand men and women carried the body of one of the unfortunate men through the streets, singing the funeral dirge. The Communists took occasion to point to the "lumber barons" as murderers of the agents of the workers, and efforts to have a special investigation carried out by the Attorney-General of Ontario failed.

On May Day the Communists clashed with the war veterans in front of the City Hall in Port William. Six of their number were placed under arrest, tried and sentenced or fined. The two Ontario cities have always had Communist elements in their midst, especially among the alien population, and on several occasions clashes were averted by the intervention of police. The present is the first time they have gone beyond the bounds of mass meetings and passive demonstrations. The work of keeping in touch with the Communist movement has been in the hands of a small squadron of constables of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

SPANISH IN HIGH SCHOOLS

There has been a disposition in some quarters to criticize Mr. J. Hinchliffe, the Minister of Education, because he has sanctioned Spanish as an "elective" subject in such of the provincial high schools as have facilities for teaching the language. Impartial consideration of the matter shows the minister not only knew what he was about when he took the action he did, but that, in all probability he has started a "boom" in the language, the acquisition of which may prove of the very highest value to those who have the patience to learn and master it.

The two Americas are almost as sharply divided linguistically as geographically. In North America English is the universal tongue, while in Central and South America and Mexico Spanish, the mother-tongue of the old conquerors, remains the language of the people. It is a fact that the Spanish-speaking races of the southern half of the two continents are showing a growing inclination to acquire a knowledge of English. It is desirable if only for purposes of commerce, that the English-speaking people of North America should learn to speak the language of Spain. In this manner the vast intercourse of the two sub-continent could be still further augmented.

Mr. Henry Ford recently stated that the people of the United States are extremely indifferent in the matter of acquiring any proficiency in other tongues than English. Even those who may be engaged in business in Central American States, Mexico and South America are very neglectful of the opportunities of trade which an acquaintance with Spanish would give them. Europeans, on the other hand, who have settled there, speak and write Spanish fluently. The consequence is that many of them have amassed great wealth and attained much political influence with the people. This is notably the case with many Dutch, German and French emigrants; they have learned the language and adapted themselves to the customs of the country, and in every case with gratifying results.

To young men, preparing themselves for a career in the world these examples point a useful lesson. They will find, on inquiry, that a knowledge of Spanish will enable them to procure lucrative positions in Canada, where there is already some demand for fairly educated young men who can converse and correspond in Spanish, and are thereby the better qualified to fill positions as traveling salesmen, correspondents, clerks, etc. At the present time there is a demand which cannot be filled for lady English-speaking teachers, stenographers, typists and traveling companions who can speak Spanish from all the Spanish-speaking American countries. The Minister of Education, with remarkable foresight, has taken time by the forelock in introducing Spanish into the high schools. His action is likely to prove abundantly justified.

SHORT-STORY WRITING

The writing of short stories is a very difficult art, though it is by no means easy to convince the aspiring young author of that fact. Nearly everybody has a good story to tell, but the art of putting it down on paper in a manner which will arrest and hold the interest of the reader is quite another matter. There are comparatively few who succeed, and of those who do a still smaller proportion who can make their output so consistent and regular as to derive a safe source of income from their toil.

A short story is difficult to define. Some would have it that a mere sketch of a character may be a short story. If this be so, then the short story must often be a dull affair. Episode is vital to a short story. The tale in which nothing happens may be a masterpiece, but it needs genius to write it. Perhaps we may say generally that a good short story should resemble a good one-act play. There should be at the outset that "contention of wills" which constitutes a dramatic situation. This situation, cleverly carried to a satisfactory climax, will be the essence of the story. No extraneous matter must be introduced; nothing that does not contribute to the final denouement. There must be a plot, and a plot that pleases.

In broad terms, a short story may be of any length from one to twenty thousand words. When, however, five or six thousand words are exceeded, the work is more likely to take the shape of a novel, and there are few who can tread the via media successfully. Brevity, indeed, is the soul of the short story. Consider the works of such as Richepin, Guy de Maupassant, Edgar Allan Poe, W. W. Jacobs, and our own Marjorie Pickthill. For the most part they are models of condensation. Guy de Maupassant can tell in a paragraph what many English authors could not tell in a page. Edgar Wallace has this art. His immense success is due largely to the fact that he always has a story to tell and can tell it in the briefest way.

These facts should be remembered by all young writers. If they cannot invent plots, if they have no imagination, they are wasting their time in trying to tell stories. Talking of plots, Sir Max Pemberton, himself a noted short-story writer, says: "And when they have plots, these will be wasted if they do not use the fewest words possible and concentrate wholly on carrying their idea to a satisfactory climax. Character in the short story must be indicated rather than described. We must judge the people in the drama by their own acts; not by the author's account of them. The question of space forbids those rambling excursions into family history in which novelists delight. The figures must be those of the moment without reference to what their ancestors were doing in the Crusades."

The poem, "The Cairn of Morpheus," appearing in these columns yesterday was from the pen of Wilson Macdonald. The name of the author failed to appear through a typographical error.

A BIT OF THE DARK AGES

There are eighteen penal institutions in New York City. Every one of them, Commissioner Patterson says, is overcrowded. The Tombs was built to house 446 prisoners. It had 804 prisoners at roll call yesterday. Similar conditions exist in other prisons. There is a state law which requires that every prisoner be provided with a separate cell. This law is nullified by force of circumstance. Prisoners are crowded up. Sanitary conditions become unsatisfactory. It is difficult to maintain discipline. The last possibility of salvaging young criminals disappears and prison becomes a very perfect school of crime. Commissioner Patterson is an able and a conscientious executive who has made excellent use of entirely inadequate equipment. He deserves more support from the public than he has had. The barbarous conditions which exist perforce in many of the institutions are a throwback into the dark ages and a shocking monument to the indifference of the public.

HARVEST

Autumn: Ripe berries in the dusty hedge. White mist at morning by the river's edge: The long year's labor reaped in mellow sheaves, The downward drift of rustling russet leaves. Frost late and early on his garden beds. Where bronze chrysanthemums lift their hardy heads: Up in the loft, sweet apples safely stored, The harvest of his orchard on his board.

—Nancy Pollok, in The Poetry Review.

No laws, however stringent, can make the idle industrious, the thriftless provident, or the drunken sober.—Samuel Smiles.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

When the burly-burly come,
When the better's best and won.
Had I thought he had been valiant,
And so cunning in fence, I'd have seen him dinned ere I had challenged him—Shakespeare.

The game of battle thrown into the Imperial political arena by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett of Canada has been picked up by Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden of Great Britain. The Canadian challenger is a big man in every sense of the term, fearless in spirit and swift in action. The British champion is not impressive physically, but his spirit is dauntless, his courage unflinching, and he has never turned his back when assailed by a political foe. Mr. Snowden's colleagues have all passed by the gate of the Canadian Prime Minister with eyes fixed upon other things. They feared that the glove might be charged with a dangerous explosive. Mr. Thomas may have said to himself, "When in doubt, it is safest to let sleeping dogs lie."

The Minister for the Dominions is not opposed to Imperial Preferential Trade. Neither are a number of other Ministers, including the Prime Minister. But not one of them has had the courage to express a candid opinion. They are all afraid of the little man of greater courage than a combination of the whole of them. They remembered what the indomitable little Chancellor had told an assembly of French statesmen. Mr. Snowden has exploded a few bombs in unexpected places, and they feared he might touch a match to a combination which would blow them all sky-high in a political sense.

Possibly the thing they feared Mr. Snowden might do has been done. They hoped that the policy Mr. Bennett expounded might be attained by devious or indirect methods. Mr. Snowden has boldly declared that such a policy cannot be attained by any methods, that Free Trade is of more importance to the British people than Imperial Trade, that the policy of the MacDonald Government is Free Trade, and that on that policy the Government will stand or fall. So there they stand, the champions in the lists—the frail little Chancellor, with the light of battle in his eye, defying the giant representative of the Dominions. Mr. Snowden declares that upon this issue the Government of which he is the master shall stand or fall. Mr. Bennett, equally indomitable and more impressive, declares: "There is the game; let us leave it. The battle is between Great Britain and the Minister of Great Britain would have averted the conflict if he could; but the matter was taken out of his hands by his more downright and more forceful colleague. Nothing can be done now, nothing but stand idly by and wait for the issue of the battle."

It is a peculiarly interesting fact that just about this season of the year fifty-two years ago the people of Canada were confronted with a vital political and economic issue. A Liberal and Free Trade Government, had been in power in this country for five years. And conditions in Canada then were very similar to the conditions in Great Britain at the present time. Business was depressed. Thousands of people were unemployed, and in order to keep the breath of life in their bodies soup kitchens had to be established in all the principal centres of population. In those days the dole system had not been thought of as a measure of relief. Canada was then, as she is today, a land of plenty. Therefore it was not a question of production. It was a question of markets for the goods produced. The most readily accessible and the most profitable market for the products of Canada was that of the United States. Entrance to that market had been gradually closed and sealed. The home market was practically free to the products of all countries and was flooded with the products of the United States.

Sir John A. Macdonald, Leader of the Opposition in Canada, began a campaign for the protection of the home market, arguing that while the foreign market was important, the home market was more dependable and therefore more important. The Protective Policy was adopted, a Government with a protective policy was returned to power, and the policy of Protection, varying to some extent according to the principles of the Governments in power, has been the accepted policy of Canada ever since. As far as Canada is concerned, there can be no turning back. Free trade within the Empire is not an impossibility, but free trade with all the world is an utter impossibility.

Mr. Snowden attaches no value to the home market, and less value to the markets of the Dominions. His mind is fixed upon the foreign market, which is sealed as tightly against the entrance of British goods as the market of the United States is to the entrance of Canadian goods. But the Chancellor and his colleagues seem to believe that the general foreign embargo against the entrance of British goods is but a temporary barrier and may be scaled down under remonstrance and persuasion. There are none so blind as those who will not see and none so deaf as those who will not hear. The fact that Protection is had for Britain carries no appeal for a change of policy to the people of foreign nations. Great Britain is not specially beloved by the people of foreign nations. In the days when Great Britain dominated the world in every sphere, she was more feared and envied than admired. There was never a nation in the world which did not look forward to and hope for her ultimate downfall. There is probably not a nation in the world today which does not hope for the failure of the Imperial Conference.

LULLABY

In twilight skies
The first stars rise
Above the western plain,
And on the ear
Falls, silver clear,
Cicada's sweet refrain.
Now to their tune,
Their wistful croon,
Sleep, baby, on my breast;
Drink draughts of sleep,
Sweet draughts and deep,
Taste joys of perfect rest.
Drift down calm seas
On silver wings of sleep,
While love its watch will keep,
Till the dawn breaks,
Till robin wakes,
Sleep, little precious, sleep!

HOW VIROL BUILDS for LIFE

Marjorie McKenna TODAY

PROOF of the Unique Powers of VIROL

Only nine years ago, Marjorie McKenna was suffering from the most serious form of wasting. To-day, thanks to Virol, she is, at the age of sixteen, a healthy well grown girl showing no trace of the tremendous strain thrown upon her constitution during her terrible illness.

Read this Remarkable Evidence—

At 7 years 5 months (Feb. 25th, 1919), Marjorie McKenna was admitted to Roseville Hospital, Dunelm, in a state of extreme emaciation and exhaustion (Photo 1). She had no special treatment except Virol, which was given her thrice daily. (Photo 2.) Virol not only restored her to health then, as the Matron of the Hospital certifies, but to-day her doctor is able to write: "I have examined Marjorie McKenna and find that she is in perfect health."

No other food has the same reconstructive power as Virol.

Forty Centres File Plans on Winter Works

Twenty-Nine Municipal Agreements Are Drafted for Signature

EFFECTIVE PROGRESS IS MADE ON SCHEME

Forty out of the seventy-five municipalities of the province have filed their unemployment work programmes with the Government. It was stated by Hon. N. S. Loughheed, Minister of Public Works, yesterday, working day and night on the task of incorporating such of these proposals as may be approved in the form of agreements, officials of the department, with P. E. Harrison, Dominion representative under the Federal plan, have drafted and mailed twenty-nine agreements for the signature of the respective municipal officers concerned.

A number of these agreements are now on their way back to the Government, signed by responsible officers of the municipalities. That of Surrey, B.C., was the first to be received. The agreements will become binding on the Province when finally signed by Premier Tolmie.

VANCOUVER RELIEF WORK STARTS TODAY

City Has 2,400 Unemployed Registered Crews Assigned to University Site

VANCOUVER, Oct. 22.—City relief work will start on Thursday, when 150 men will be employed on sewer, roads and other work. It was announced by Mayor W. H. Malkin today, following receipt of word from F. E. Harrison, Dominion field wage officer, that the contract signed by the city on Monday has his approval.

City Engineer Charles Brakenridge will put 150 men at work on Thursday, and each day thereafter an additional number will be taken on until some 500 are at work. Each man will be employed only four days a week.

This morning an additional fifty men were sent to the university area, where the Provincial Government is opening a new subdivision. On Tuesday fifty men were put at work there, and within the next few days it is likely that another 100 men will be engaged on this work.

Registration for relief work is continuing at the city relief office, and on Tuesday and this morning 2,400 men placed their names on record. Of these, about 1,350 are single men and 1,050 married.

OPERA TO BE GIVEN IN CITY THIS YEAR

Von Suppe's charming and tuneful opera, "Boccaccio, Prince of Palermo," is to be produced in Victoria next January.

This interesting announcement comes simultaneously with the news of the formation in Victoria of an operatic society, which has for its objects the production of operas with talent drawn from the various musical groups in the city. Organization was effected at a meeting held on Monday evening at the home of Mme. Eva Baird, when it was decided to invite His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor to act as honorary president, other officers being elected as follows: Director, Comtesse de Turckowicz; president, Harry J. Davis; secretary, Mrs. D. B. McConnan; treasurer, James Hunter. The general committee comprises Miss Agnew, Mme. Eva Baird, Mrs. J. O. Cameron, Miss Dunsmuir, Mrs. J. O. Nichol, Mrs. Ogilvie, Sidney Oliver, Dr. Hermann Robertson, Count Jean de Suzannet, Mrs. J. W. Spencer, Mrs. Curtis Sampson, Mrs. Charles E. Wilson and Stewart.

Mme. de Turckowicz, by request, told the meeting something about successful operatic productions with which she had been associated in Toronto when she was operatic coach and dramatic director at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, and in San Diego, Cal., where she directed civic opera. She was confident, she told the meeting, that in Victoria admirable vocal and instrumental material could be found for similar productions, and that this recommendation the meeting decided to organize.

The president, Mr. Davis, will submit working constitution and by-laws for approval by the general meeting to be held on November 5. Membership fees were fixed at $2 per season for active and $3 for associate members. It is the society's intention to present one or two more operas this season.

Just Roamin' Around

By TWO ROVERS

Rover and I returned last night from a really dandy and interesting excursion; we—but I had better begin at the beginning.

It was an excellent example of a perfect autumn morning. We two rovers rose early and caught a bus over to Holland Avenue. That avenue, by the way, used to be the end of Burrard's Road in the old days, I'm told, and it still holds that quite elevated position, from which point it gazes with complacent interest over the surrounding district of Strawberry Vale (where we saw no strawberries), but we did see and admire fields of waving corn, beaked with sunflowers, a combination of lovely stateliness (or stately loveliness), combined with utility, for these two, united, are used for silage for the cows who give such wonderful milk.

Rover was enraptured with the whole place and wants to go out there again, and so do I. On our way we passed Marigold, a charmingly attractive little suburban settlement with a name that fits it to a T. A bit farther on, we were able to gaze with a keen satisfaction on the Upper Gorge waters, better known as Portage Inlet, and some day we are going to spend a whole day there. You bet we are!

If Rover, or I, should ever win a sweepstake (here Rover picked up his ear, he loves a "steak" and no mistake), I know a spot where the scrub oak grows that takes a world of beating and it overlooks the placid waters of the Upper Gorge.

At Holland Avenue we reluctantly left the comfy seats we had occupied, and, stepping out on to the roadway, close to a dear little church and opposite a Timothey Eaton-In-Miniature, where we laid in a supply of matches to keep the nicotine home fire burning; and then it out the road that seemed to lead us to Prospect Lake. As we came up to the whitewashed buildings of Raper's Ranch, we sojournd there to see the "beast" and nearest ranch that either Rover or his master had ever come across. "This is great sport!" said Rover's wagging tail. How he loved to see the "beast" and nearest ranch that either Rover or his master had ever come across.

EUROPEAN TOUR LECTURE TOPIC

Packed House Hears Dr. Davies Tell of Recent Trip With Party

PRaises Old Country

Concluding an illuminating and interesting lecture on his recent tour of Europe, with a stirring address of the Old Country, her ways of doing things, her character, and her habit of looking everything straight in the face, Dr. Clem Davies touched the hearts of close to 2,000 people who packed the Royal Victoria Theatre to overflowing last night. Over three hundred were turned away through lack of seating accommodation.

In a dramatic conclusion, the speaker, his listeners the Old Country thought it better to give a man money to support himself than a woman to support herself. People all over the world are selling England what to do, and how to do it. She listens patiently and then does things in her own way, continued Dr. Davies. A thousand years from now, Premier will be telling England what to do. "Let me tell you," said the speaker, "England is not ready for the burial service yet."

Dr. Davies graphically described the European trip made by his party. Speaking of the visit to Paris, the displays in the store windows in this great French city did not compare with Victoria, Dr. Davies stated.

Premier S. P. Tolmie, who occupied the chair, introduced the speaker, and at the intermission of the lecture he congratulated Dr. Davies on his excellent discourse. At the conclusion, Premier Tolmie touched on the Imperial Conference at London, and stated that he was of the opinion that the Empire would be brought closer together as a result.

Previous to the lecture and during the intermission, the Victoria Girls' Band, under the baton of Bandmaster Hodgkins, rendered selections.

During the interval Frank H. Partridge sang "There is a Land."

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, accompanied by Miss Margaret Bruce MacKenzie, the Lady Rosalind Northcote, Captain Molson, A.D.C., and Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn, was in attendance.

WILL MAINTAIN LAW AND ORDER

Ontario Attorney-General Is Ready to Meet Any Emergency in Port Arthur

NO TROUBLE YESTERDAY

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Emphatic assurance was given tonight by Attorney-General W. H. Price that steps have been taken by his department to insure the handling of any emergency that may arise out of yesterday's Communist disturbance at Port Arthur.

"We hope the trouble has cleared up," said Colonel Price, "and that it will not be necessary to take such drastic action as to ask the Federal authorities to step in, but just let me assure the public that we, here, are prepared to take every means in our power, if required, to maintain law and order."

Colonel Price is keeping in close touch with the situation. He has several conferences with Major-General Victor Williams, commander of Provincial Police, and a number of telephone conversations with the Crown attorney of Port Arthur.

VETERANS' OFFER AID

Provincial Police are co-operating with the Port Arthur municipal force. War veterans of the city came forward in large numbers offering their services in putting down any disturbance and it is understood more than a hundred have been sworn in for duty and are "standing by" for any crisis that may develop.

MEDAL PRESENTED AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE TO ENGLISH VISITOR

An interesting little ceremony took place yesterday afternoon, when His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor presented to Alfred Leslie Henderson the Imperial Service Medal, awarded some time ago in recognition of the completion of forty-five years' faithful duty in the postal service at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England.

The presentation was made in the presence of the little company of guests representing the Vancouver Board of Trade, who were entertained at Government House during the afternoon. Mr. Henderson retired last year from his position, in which he had attained the rank of overseer, and has been visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cousin, on Vancouver Island. As he had already come to Canada at the time of the award, the medal was transmitted to the Under-Secretary of State office at Ottawa by the Hon. J. H. Thomas, Minister for Dominion Affairs, and was in turn sent to the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, with the request that he present it to Mr. Henderson.

The presentation to Mr. Henderson was witnessed by his wife and daughter and son-in-law. Although he has to return to England this winter, Mr. Henderson's few months' visit here has so favorably impressed him that he intends returning here next year.

Scott, Shelbourne Street, and the cost of the new structure will be in the neighborhood of $12,000, inclusive of machinery. It is expected the plant will resume operations by the end of the year.

Makes Presentation—In recognition of her splendid voluntary services to Christ Church Cathedral parish and Sunday school for several years past, Miss Watt was presented "Tuesday evening with two pictures, painted by a well-known artist, and a purse of money for personal uses." Hit by Car—Knocked down by a car at the intersection of Douglas Street and Beesline Road at 11:55 o'clock last night, Mrs. Henry Cummings, 3400 Saanich Road, suffered a broken left arm and cuts to her forehead. Ride-wood.

Lecture on Shakespeare—Miss Jeanette Cann, head of the English department of the Victoria College faculty, gave an interesting lecture on Shakespeare and some of his plays at the first meeting of the college literary society held on Tuesday evening. Students read portions of plays, which were illustrated by lantern slides made from the Boydell engravings done in the seventeenth century to form the base of a Shakespearean gallery, and which ultimately found their way to the Provincial Library during E. O. S. Schofield's time. Elizabethan music played during the intervals added to the interest and atmosphere of the occasion.

Old-Time Dance to Be Held at Metchoshin

Old tunes, and old-time dances, called off in days gone by, will feature the fourth annual pioneer entertainment to be given tomorrow evening in the Metchoshin Hall by the Metchoshin Women's Institute.

Pioneer residents of the district will be the honored guests at the affair, which, as on former occasions, is expected to attract a large number of persons from Victoria. His Worship Mayor Herbert Anacomb has promised to be present and lead off in the dancing.

In order to accommodate those who wish to attend these unique festivities, arrangements have been made for a stage coach to leave the Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot at 8 o'clock on Friday.

Annual Pound Party

The annual pound party of the Children's Aid Home will be held on Friday, November 7, at the home, 1234 Pandora Avenue.

Meralomas Sending Strong Canadian Rugby Squad for Saturday's Game

Victoria Capitals In Need of Victory Over Mainland Team

Local Coaches to Pit Formidable Line-Up Against Visitors in Fixture at Royal Athletic Park at 2:30 o'clock

With a victory needed to keep them in the fight for the "Big Four" Canadian Rugby League championship, Coaches Dick Wilson and Ernie Cook, of the Victoria Capitals, will trot out their strongest aggregation Saturday afternoon at Royal Athletic Park, at 2:30 o'clock, in an endeavor to halt the winning streak of the formidable Meraloma squad. Last week the Vancouver Athletic Club bowed to the Meraloma outfit, 6-2, which indicates the strength of the winners, as the V.A.C. are the present holders of the British Columbia honors.

When the locals take the field they will be making their second appearance of the season. In the opening fixture they dropped a 7-6 decision to the V.A.C. in a game in which Victoria held the upper hand throughout. The Cape coaches are sending their underdogs through workouts each evening, and when they face the Mainlanders a new bag of tricks is expected to be unveiled.

Horace Good, a great defensive player, will be back at snap position, with Joe McCallister and Harold Engelson at the inside places. Jack McDonald, Victoria's heavy-weight Rugby star, along with J. Engelson, will look after the middle positions, with Eddie de Blaquiere and Art Bell at outside.

BELLIS AT QUARTER
Jack Bellis, hard-working quarter-back, who can sling forward passes with remarkable skill and accuracy, will be back in the thick of the fight at his old place. Roy Gaunt and Stagg will play half-backs and Jack Horne will hold down flying wing. On the bench, ready for action when the signal is given, will be Benny McMillan, Bill Putnam, Turgoose, Miller, Emery, Pettigrew, Williams and Hardy, all capable of turning in fine performances.

The Vancouver coach will bring over twenty-four players. Practically all are well known on the rugby field, as they have been playing the Canadian code for several years. They are powerful, both on offense and defense, and Victoria will have to be at their best to bring out a victory.

MERALOMA'S LINE-UP
Vancouver will take the field with the probable starting line-up: Snap, Hammond; Insides, Elliott and

JACK McDONALD

Hard-working runner, who will be seen in action on the local squad in Saturday's fixture against the strong Meraloma aggregation from Vancouver. McDonald will hold down one of the middle positions and is expected to be a thorn in the side of the Mainlanders.

Williams; middles, Oakenful and Lawrence; outsidies, A. Lowe and B. Lowe; quarter-back, Tingley; halves, Kay, McLeod and Barrington; flying wing, McCallum. Ready for action on the bench will be Lewis, Games, Black, Davis, Potter, Hayes, Stewart, Barron, Fraser, Hutchinson, Sturdy and Brown.

The fans who wend their way to the Royal Athletic Park will get a glimpse of two evenly balanced squads in action and will, no doubt, see a game that will be nip-and-tuck from whistle to whistle.

STRIBLING AND CHRISTNER WILL CLASH TONIGHT

Macon Heavyweight to Take On Akron Contender in 10-Round Bout at Newark

ANOTHER SHARKEY GO BEING PLANNED

NEWARK, N.J., Oct. 22.—Young Bill Stribling, heavyweight ace of the Southland, will swing back into action here tomorrow night for the first time since his spectacular knock-out over Otto Von Porat, in Chicago, and Phil Scott, in London. The Macon youth is scheduled to go ten rounds with K.O. Christner, Iron puddler from Akron, Ohio. Christner has slipped backward since he flared into fame a couple of years ago and fought Jack Sharkey to a standstill in Madison Square Garden. Recently he was listed among the knockout victims of Primo Carnera, but he retains considerable wallop power in his right hand and ability to stand up under punishment.

Stribling, considered by many experts the outstanding American challenger for the heavyweight title, is in fine condition and is expected to have little trouble with the former thrower.

If Madison Square Garden plans materialize, Stribling's bout with Christner will be one of his last until the curtain rises on another heavyweight spectacle in Miami, Fla., this winter. The Garden hopes to stage a match between Stribling and Jack Sharkey in the South.

J. RAINEY BAGS ANOTHER COUGAR

J. Rainey, Albert Head, bagged another cougar at William Head early yesterday morning. The cat was reported worrying sheep at Rainey's ranch Tuesday night, and Rainey hurried to the scene and bagged the cougar after his dogs had trailed her to Buck Hill. Investigation yesterday morning revealed that the cat, which was a female, had killed thirteen sheep. Rainey is looking for the mate, which is believed to be in the vicinity.

Pro Patria, runners-up for the provincial interservice billiard honors last year, suffered their first defeat of the season last night in the Interservice League when they dropped the decision to the Veterans of France squad, 501-438. T. Dunlop, of the Veterans, scored the high break of the match, running off 49. Dunlop and Hodge are "B" team players. The scores:

Vancouver Retains Slim Championship Chance by Win Over Westminster

TEAMS SCORELESS IN OPENING HALF

VANCOUVER, Oct. 22.—Vancouver A.C. retained their slim championship chance in the Provincial Senior Football League by defeating West Westminster, 11-0, under the floodlights at Athletic Park here tonight. After a scoreless first half, the local green-shirts scored one touchdown in each of the last two quarters, the second of which was converted.

The third period try came as a result of Shields' fumble behind his own goal line, while Vancouver's second goal point score resulted from a series of dashing runs and forward passes which carried the ball in a consecutive series of downs for over fifty yards across the Westminster goal line.

F. PATRICK TO QUIT AS LIONS' MANAGER

Will Turn Reins Over to Brother, Guy—Don Cummings Traded to Tacoma Club

VANCOUVER, Oct. 22.—Don Cummings, forward of the Vancouver Lions, has been sold to the Tacoma club, of the Pacific Coast Hockey League. It was announced here today by Mickey Mackay, manager of the Tacoma club. CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis ruled today no major league club could draft a player from one of its own baseball farms.

It was the first attempt of its kind since the farm system became general throughout the major leagues.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

Paderewski—"Man of No Dreams"—Czar Nicholas' rebuke ("Pas de rêves, messieurs") to a Polish delegation waiting upon him in Paris after one of the numerous Polish insurrections had been suppressed with great severity, constitutes one of the milestones in the history of Russo-Polish relations. Paderewski's birthdate, his name which is identical with those famous words, and the fact that the Poles consider that he has done more for the liberation of his country than any other man, are a most curious historical coincidence. My information is based on Paderewski's official biography, which the Polish Government circulated under the title "The Man of Destiny" (Maz Przemysla). At his accession to the Premiership of Poland in 1919.

Senior Fifteens to Start Rugby Season Here on November 15

English Code to Open a Week After Close of Local Canadian Rugby Schedule—Intermediates Start Saturday—Strong Teams Lined Up

No sooner will the local Canadian Rugby season bow itself off the calendar for another year than the curtain will go up on the Victoria Senior Rugby League. At a meeting of the local Rugby Union yesterday, it was decided to open the Senior League on November 15, exactly one week after the close of the Canadian code in the city, instead of November 1, as previously announced.

Owing to the fact that the Victoria Capitals, the city's hope in the "Big Four" Canadian Rugby League, have fixtures scheduled on November 1 and 8 in Vancouver and Victoria, respectively, officials in charge of the English passing game came to the conclusion that November 15 would be an appropriate date.

Canadian Scottish, last year's champions and winners of the B.C. Millie championship; J.B.A.A., and Oak Bay Wanderers are the three opponents which will compete for the city championship. The soldiers beat out the carmen twelve months ago after some crucial battles for the honors, while the Navy squad was forced from the loop, due to the fact that several of their players were out of the city most of the time.

INTERMEDIATES TO OPEN
Saturday, the curtain will go up on the Intermediate League with the Victoria College squad, last year's city and provincial titleholders, facing the J.B.A.A. and Oak Bay Wanderers the Canadian Scottish. The former fixture will take place at the Victoria High School, and the latter attraction at the Oak Bay Park at 3 o'clock.

The Collegians walked all over the opposition last season to capture the city laurels, and then continued their victorious march to win the British Columbia title. With another strong aggregation, the Collegians are favorites to retain their laurels, but to do so they will have to be on their toes, as the other teams have lined up strong material and will make things interesting from the fans' viewpoint.

The teams will meet each other twice before the Christmas holidays, and the league will be run off in two halves, the winners of the first half to play the second half champs for the title.

PARK IS OBTAINED
The Rugby Union announced that the Royal Athletic Park had been secured for the McKechnie Cup fixtures. A referees' board will be formed by the local union before the opening games.

V. L. Denton, H. J. Ketchen and Fred Cabeldu, members of the Victoria Rugby Union, will leave tomorrow afternoon to attend a meeting of the British Columbia Rugby Union in the evening.

Hollywood Badminton Club's Quarters Ready
Announcement was made yesterday that the Hollywood Badminton Club's quarters are now ready, and that the club will hold its first meeting on Wednesday and Saturday nights from 7 to 10:30 o'clock. Anyone wishing to join may obtain any information from the secretary at 1642 Hollywood Crescent.

Bernie Morris Named Pilot of Detroit Icemen

DETROIT, Oct. 22.—Bernie Morris, who managed the Hamilton entrant in the International Hockey League last year, today was named manager of the Detroit Icemen, member of the same league. Morris played with the Olympics in 1927 and 1928. He succeeds Frank Foyston, who returned his contract unsigned, demanding a $1,000 increase in salary.

NIGHBOR NOT INTERESTED

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—It was definitely stated tonight that negotiations between Frank Nighbor, famous poke-check artist, from Pembroke, and the Detroit Olympics, of the International Hockey League, with regard to the managerial position of the Detroit club had been broken off. It was reported here last night that Nighbor had accepted the Detroit club's offer, but this was denied tonight.

CHAMPION AWARDED TECHNICAL K.O. IN ELEVENTH SESSION

Referee Lou Magnolia Stops Championship Mix After Bain Suffers Severe Cut Over Right Eye—No Knockdowns Scored During Poor Battle at New York

Willard Dix Loses First Bout of Eastern Invasion by Decision

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Oct. 22.—Maxie Rosenbloom, champion of all the light-heavyweights,uffed an unqualified young man from Newark named Able Bain, into a technical knockout tonight in the eleventh round of one of the poorest title matches ever staged here.

Although the battle was scheduled for fifteen rounds, many of the 4,400 customers had gone elsewhere by the time Maxie cut the left eye of the outclassed youngster so badly that Referee Lou Magnolia was forced to halt the bout. There had been no knockdowns. The eleventh round lasted one minute, forty-seven seconds.

In all the eleven rounds Bain, hitherto a middleweight who has done most of his fighting in New Jersey, managed to win only one, the second, when he hurt the champion with body blows. The remainder of the little Able was a target for Maxie's unorthodox slapping, poking and cuffing. The attack of the titleholder baffled him and he held and wrestled as often as he could. Rosenbloom, in none too good condition and apparently lacking his usual ambition, toyed with Bain, riddling his face with left jabs, swinging an overhead right slap in the face, and generally making life miserable for the youngster. Early in the third round Maxie started a trickle of blood from Able's left eye, and though he did not concentrate unduly on the optic, the cut gradually widened.

In the eleventh round with Bain a sorry figure, staggering around the ring, Maxie tossed an overhead right that opened the wound over Able's eye and Referee Magnolia called a halt while what was left of the $12,000 worth of customers sent up a feeble cheer.

Bain protested vigorously he could continue, and attempted to get away from his handlers and carry on the one-sided fracas in private if necessary. He received his chance to fight for the crown due to the shifting of dates at the Garden and the lack of any other man to oppose Rosenbloom for the title. Only in the third round, when Maxie bumped into a couple of lefts and rights to the body that stung did the New Jersey youngster appear to have any right in the same ring with the titleholder. Rosenbloom slashed him almost at will thereafter, cutting him about the face until the only element of doubt left was Bain's ability to stand up for the full fifteen rounds.

Rosenbloom, rather plump around the middle, weighed 174½ pounds, Bain 171½.

WILLARD DIX LOSES
Bob Olin, New York lightweight, spoiled the Eastern debut of Willard Dix of Bellingham, winning the decision after ten rough and tumble rounds of hard fighting in a preliminary. Dix was floored for nine counts in the fourth and ninth rounds. Olin was knocked down for nine in the fourth. Olin weighed 174, Dix 173 pounds.

BLIND SINGER WILL APPEAR AT MAT SHOW

Disabled War Veteran Will Sing at Kruse-Strack Bout Saturday

HAD FINE RECORD WITH CANADIANS

Wrestling fans, who attend Saturday night's show at the Tillicum Gymnasium, will have an added attraction offered them in the appearance of Sergt. L. C. McMahon, blind baritone, who will render a number of solos during the intermissions. McMahon has a pleasing voice and won considerable fame as a radio performer. He is making a tour of the Pacific Northwest and will appear in Vancouver tonight.

Sergt. McMahon was one of the few Americans who joined the Canadian forces in the early stages of the Great War. Shortly after hostilities started McMahon headed for Toronto, joined the 3rd Battalion and left Valcartier Camp with the First Canadian Contingent. After serving with the Canadians for some time he transferred to the Imperial A.M.C. He was wounded five times, and was put out of action on September 12, 1918, when he was blinded by bursting shrapnel.

Major Robert McMahon, Toronto, a brother, was killed thirteen hours before the Armistice was signed.

A collection will be taken to aid the disabled war veteran, who has a wife and two children.

Hudson's Bay, 2; Saanich United, 2.

NEXT WEEK'S GAMES
Garrison vs. Saanich United, at Work Point Barracks; referee, McKay.

Hudson's Bay vs. Navy, at Royal Athletic Park; referee, Armstrong.

Favored by ideal weather conditions and witnessed by one of the largest crowds for many years, the Victoria and District Wednesday Football League ushered in its 1930-31 season at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday afternoon in great style. The "Booster" Day innovation made a big hit with the fans, while the attendance of the Firemen's team yesterday afternoon in great style.

ALD. ADAM OPENS LOOP
Promptly at 2 o'clock Referee Armstrong tooted his whistle for the lifting of the curtain on another season of the Victoria and District Football League championship, and the McKay Shield to Percy Shrimpton, captain of the Hudson's Bay, and the Ross & Taylor Cup and Hayward Cup to Alex Whyte, skipper of the Navy eleven.

During the interval of the first game Alderman Adam presented the McKay Shield to Percy Shrimpton, captain of the Hudson's Bay, and the Ross & Taylor Cup and Hayward Cup to Alex Whyte, skipper of the Navy eleven.

WATT SCORES TWO
Two goals, both in the second half, by Tom Watt, speedy centre of the Navy, gave him a terrific 2-0 victory over the Garrison in the initial battle.

The Tommies displayed their best football in the first half, when they showed their skill in the attack, but weak finishing in front of the net prevented them from scoring.

The tans made a number of dangerous attacks in this half, but Harrison, Garrison net minder, executed some pretty saves. Porteous, in the other goal, also turned in an excellent game.

After a scoreless first half the teams trotted back on the field to resume play, and it was only five minutes after this resumption that Watt opened the scoring. In a race with Judd, army fullback, Watt secured the leather and beat Harrison at close range.

For the next fifteen minutes play was mostly in centre field, with little to choose between the teams. After a number of close calls on the army citadel, the sailors broke through for their second marker and the final tally of the match. Watt scored during a melee in front of the goal.

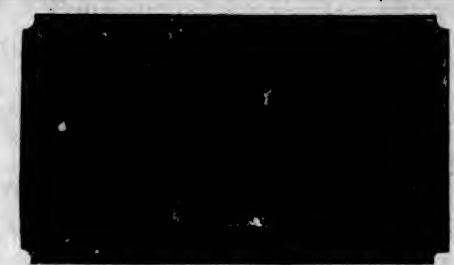

Garrison fought with their backs to the net all of the way but could not penetrate the Navy net. Sandy Spiers, captain of the Tommies, was the outstanding man on the field. Spiers played a consistently useful game and held the Garrison together nicely. The veteran Alex Whyte, at fullback for the Navy; Sandler, a newcomer; Tom Watt and Gosier were the pick of the winners.

Armstrong refereed and the teams were:
Navy—Porteous; Walters, Whyte; Sandler, Roberts, Plummer; Gosier, Gleave, T. Watt, Pittall and Hilland.
Garrison—Harrison; Kemp, Judd; Quinn, Spiers, Scanlon; Middleton, Sundock, Burgess, Edwards and McAllister.

BATTLE TO DRAW
Cull's beautiful goal, which entered the net five minutes before the final whistle, gave the Hudson's Bay eleven, the year's champions, a two-all draw with Teddy Hawks and his youthful band of footballers bearing the colors of Saanich United in the second attraction of the double bill.

Hawks trotted out a well-balanced bunch of youngsters, and although they were outplayed in the latter part of the game, they well deserved a draw, as they had control of the situation during the early stages. From the start the suburbanites went on the offensive and, after a steady barrage of shots on Percy Shrimpton, Davidson, clever inside left, beat the Bays' goalie from close quarters.

Saanich kept up their attack but Shrimpton was on the job and saved many a drive labeled goal. From a breakaway Purdy, hustling, Bay forward, got home the equalizer with a well-directed shot which beat Restal from the start. The teams battled on, but the score remained the same as the rest period arrived.

Ten minutes after the interval Davidson registered his second tally of the game when he tricked his way through the Bays' defence to beat Shrimpton. From then the Bays pressed but the great back work of Lloyd Cann, George Wyatt and Eric Moir kept the attackers at bay. Twice Cull had hard luck when he terrific drives hit the crossbar and bounced back into play.

TYING GOAL
Five minutes from time the Bays were awarded a foul just outside the penalty area. The reluctant rest went straight for the goal but Shrimpton punched it out. Cull came in on the rebound and banged it into the net for the tying counter.

The final whistle sounded with the Bays still on the attack. "Scotty" McKay refereed and the teams follow:
Saanich United—Restal, Wyatt, Cann, Stoner, Moir, Speller, Brown, Burns, Preston, Davidson and Tooby.
Hudson's Bay—Shrimpton, Davis, Armstrong, Oskman, Woodley, Geddes, Cull, Purdy, Fish, McInroy and Newell.

None of the various titles involved were at stake. Thirty thousand fans witnessed the bout and booted Referee Brelstein's decision, believing Girones had earned a slight margin.

In the second round Brown opened a garb over the Spaniard's right eye, bringing a flow of blood that almost blinded Girones. There were no knockdowns. Brown weighed 123 pounds, Girones 123.

Australian Cue Wizard Beats the Experts

Australia's greatest billiard player, who recently won the international match against Newman, Davis and McConachy, the feat was all the more remarkable in view of the fact that Lindrum gave each of his opponents a handicap of 1,000 points. Lindrum is now playing another match under the same conditions.

Winter Months Are Great Aid to Golfers

By FRANCIS OUTMETT
Former Open and Amateur Champion.
Now that Fall has arrived those golfers who have been struggling all summer with their grip, swing and one thing or another are probably just rounding into shape. After one continual battle all through the Spring and Summer to develop a smooth and co-ordinated golf swing, they face the barrier of winter with its golf inactivity and the ever present suggestion that next year will find them back where they were the previous Spring. Of course, during dreary moments they are likely to be incurable optimists and vision a three-hundred-yard drive down the centre of the fairway, a perfect pitch shot to the green with just another backspin to hold the ball within a radius of four feet from the hole and the subsequent accurate putt that sinks with a determined plunk right into the cup.

In some cases these dreams may turn out to be realities. The vast majority, however, will suffer along in usual tenor of their ways hoping for the day when their game will also come through in grand style. Play for the season of course is not yet ended. There still remains about a month of trekking over fairway and green before snow is apt to cover the links. With Winter comes in fact there is more of a chance of scoring good rounds provided too many balls are not lost in the falling leaves which have a tendency to hide the ball from searching eyes.

KEEPS MUSCLES ATTUNED

When Winter sets in, however, there is no chance of playing around a course. This does not mean, however, that one should entirely neglect swinging the club or providing some method of golf play that will keep one more or less on to his game. Driving balls, putting courses and target cages have increased in such rapidly during the past year that there is a wealth of opportunity to do this.

Once in a while such a golfer as Bobby Jones appears who has so developed his game that he needs no Winter practice and but little of any practice to reach his peak. For the vast majority there is need of keeping muscles attuned to the various golf swings. In so doing one will be better equipped to play when the courses reopen next Spring.

Coasters Give Brilliant Display in Humbling Prairie Squad—Dirom and Latta Star—Aerial Attacks Bewilder Alberta's Hopes

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 22.—A blue and gold cloud rose on the horizon of Western Canada Intercollegiate Rugby here today, threatening to upset the calculations of the Prairie collegian teams in the race for the Ritchie Cup. It was the University of British Columbia who opened their series on the rolling stretches of the Midwestern Prairies with a most convincing 16-1 victory over the green and gold-parbed warriors of the University of Alberta.

The Far Westerners gave a display of savage line-plunging that the coaches announced after yesterday's meeting. Buffalo will get into action at Windsor, November 14, and on November 15 six of the seven teams will be engaged. Pittsburgh at Buffalo, London at Cleveland and Detroit at Syracuse. Two player deals were announced yesterday. Carl Voss, the property of the Toronto Maple Leafs, will appear in a Buffalo uniform next Winter, while Percy Quessell, of Niagara Falls, has been purchased by the London Panthers.

Two player deals were announced yesterday. Carl Voss, the property of the Toronto Maple Leafs, will appear in a Buffalo uniform next Winter, while Percy Quessell, of Niagara Falls, has been purchased by the London Panthers.

English Cueists Have Good Leads Over Australian

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Joe Davis, English professional champion, and Tom Newman, the other English entrant, had big leads over their Australian opponents at the close of play today in the two international billiard matches being played at London and Liverpool.

Davis brought his aggregate to 22,888, compared with 18,251 for Newman. In the other match Newman increased his score to 20,158, while Walter Lindrum, great Australian expert, amassed 16,745. Lindrum, however, is allowing 7,000 points to the three others.

CITY TO PRACTISE

Victoria City senior football eleven will hold a practice tonight at the Veterans of France, at 8 o'clock. All players are requested to attend.

The young married couple were having a stiff while waiting lunch at a modest eating house.

She, as usual, was grumbling because they were unable to afford the luxuries which had been a feature of the honeymoon.

"All right, all right!" he returned rather sharply. "You cannot have a brass band everywhere you go." "Oh, yes, I can!" she returned bitterly. "I've got it now—on my finger."

At dawn the Japanese vessel was sighted. The apex of the storm had passed, but the wind still whistled and such a sea was running that it was impossible for the ships to draw close. After a hasty conference it was decided to risk a lifeboat. Horn's condition was grave and the young medical student expressed himself as more than willing to take the desperate chance.

A lifeboat was lowered and then a dangerous voyage began. The little Japanese sailors had all they could do to hold their oars in the battle against waves that knew no mercy, that pounded, thundered and lashed at the tiny craft, shot it skyward, plunged it to stay depths. One man was set to bailing, another to steering, and three worked the oars, while the young student sat tense, gripping a .4 of surgical instruments. He spent those terrifying moments, he told Anderson later, racking his brains for the small store of knowledge about appendicitis cases he had acquired only a few months before.

WATCHED ANXIOUSLY
The crew of the Nichtensteg lined up at the rail and watched anxiously the tortuous progress of the little boat, staggering over an ocean in revolt. It took half an hour to cover two hundred yards, but at last the lifeboat pulled alongside and a ladder was lowered. The student began clambering up.

Even for one who is used to it, a rope ladder attached to a pitching vessel presents difficulties, but the student, burdened with a leather valise and unaccustomed to anything less stable than stairs, found himself up against it. The lifeboat had pulled away to save itself from being crushed against the ... onside against the ship doused the boy.

He looked up at the crew and grimed, waving his valise to show he was all right. That was his undoing. A wave caught him, lifted him clear of the ladder and dumped him into the sea.

OPERATION SUCCESS

The lifeboat crew fished him out. So plucky was the youngster that he had not released his hold on the all-important valise. He began his climb all over again. Two sailors held Anderson's legs and he reached far over, grasping hands and hauling him to the safety of the deck.

The operation was a success, Horn told me. He is still shaky on his pins, but he said, "I'd give that kid 100 per cent anytime. He's wasting his time in school. He ought to be out carving up people."

ITALY USES TAX ARMY

Rome and other cities of Italy have developed a special army of tax collectors, in military uniforms, to gather the internal consumption taxes. They are under a commandant, lieutenants and other subalterns. On Mussolini's order cities were obliged to abandon customs duties they had imposed on products brought in from other cities to be sold. When this source of income ceased it was replaced by another—a tax on material consumed within the city. Hence the new "army" to watch warehouses and officiate in the new offices to tabulate and collect the tax. Articles particularly subject to the tax include wine, liquors, mineral water, beer and meats.

The Scandal of Boxing; A Gang-Ridden Racket

By MILTON MACKAYE
(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

(This is the second of a series of articles dealing with the scandal of boxing, and the part played by organized crime, gamblers, racketeers, and other underworld elements in the control of the sport.)

There have always been scandals and evils connected with pugilism, and no wonder. It was born among criminals, and the early practitioners were rough and uncouth gent. One of the first American champions was a long-time jailbird who ultimately had his neck stretched by the California vigilantes for a very untidy murder.

Boxing, as Benny Leonard once wrote, is a dirty game, but in those earlier days it was dirty in a frank and open way. It made no claim to respectability; it was a recreation for the low-minded and the depraved. Matches, more often than not, were fought on the square, and a boxer's honesty was a personal matter with him; he would be on the up-and-up if he wished.

But the corruption today runs down another alley; it cannot be laid primarily to the more cussedness and craftiness of the fighting men themselves. Boxers no longer control boxing; they are mere pawns in a game of moneybags and carpet-bags.

The racketeers are the gunmen and gamblers. As Northern highlanders, after the Civil War, moved in on the Confederacy, the muscle men have moved in on the realm—and with like results.

Overdressed gentlemen who, a few years ago, didn't know the difference between a bayonet and a winner and loser, and walk away from the prodigious purse that a legalized game has produced, the racketeers have become managers and lobby-men's seconds.

What do these men know or care about boxing? Nothing, but they know where the money lies. The gunmen syndicates have, by pistols and political pressure, come to be super-commissionaires of the shadows and behind their front men, dominate the sport.

BOOTLEGGERS AND BOXING
Prohibition was ushered in January 18, 1920. The Walker law established the existing form of legalized boxing in New York State at the same time. The character of the fight game changed with the race of affluent racketeers and the bootlegging industry.

Uncle Sam, too, was unwittingly at fault. The United States Government, during war days, found boxing a sound and important factor in improving the morale of troops. Boxing tournaments were encouraged, and famous fighters were commissioned in camps as instructors. The Armistice, after eighteen months, turned out several millions of roaring and clashing fight fans.

It is hard to fix the year when the liquor racketeers definitely edged their way into pugilism, but that they were there, full force by 1925 is indicated by published accounts of the match between Charles Phil Rosenberg and Eddie Shea, at which we will look in a moment.

For real organization and real power in boxing, however, it was necessary to wait for the full development of the Bill Duff-Carnera-Madden combination, which operates in New York City. There is a firm that has grown most ambitiously. It was doing a big business even before the Carnera fiasco brought its activities to light. This series will tell you Duff and Madden later.

PURSES GREATLY INCREASED
Why did the racketeers come over? A glance at the purses of recent years will answer that.

Tunney and Dempsey in Chicago drew a gate of $2,000,000 and an attendance of 145,000 people. Tunney and Dempsey in Philadelphia drew a gate of $1,800,000 and the attendance was 130,000. The receipts of the Dempsey-Carpenter fight were $1,250,000; the Dempsey-Pirpo fight, $1,118,222; and the Dempsey-Sharkey affair, $1,063,529. Tunney and Heenev drew $700,000, but the promoters went into their pockets to pay some of the expenses. For Tunney had been guaranteed $625,000 for the event.

The Willis-Pirpo party drew $700,000, as did Schmeling-Sharkey. Dempsey-Willard drew $452,000, and Schmeling-Paulino, $283,000. Deane and Berlenbach, four years ago, pulled in $450,000, and Sharkey-Stribling at Miami was a little behind with a mere $400,000.

"Cheap" bouts, of course, were heavyweights exhibits, but the boys in the lighter classes, too, have made fortunes. The two Benny Leonard-Lew Trinder bouts drew $452,000 and $487,000, respectively. Mickey Walker has been a great money-maker, drawing $65,000 as his share of the Ace Hudkins match alone. Sammy Mandell made several fortunes, receiving, for instance, $65,000 for beating Jimmy McLarnin.

SECOND-RATERS DRAW BIG
Even second-rate fighters in action once every week or so receive from $1,000 to $1,500 to fight an eight-round semi-final. And top-notchers make the incomes of the greatest of ball players look sick and anemic.

Some of the most important scraps this year and the receipts have been: Schmeling-Sharkey, $700,000; Scott-Sharkey, $200,000; Stribling-McLarnin, $100,000; Stribling-Mandell, $100,000; Carnera-Codfrey, $180,000; Chocolate-Berg, $152,377; and Stribling-Von Porst, $80,000.

Is there any question, after a glimpse at these figures why the racketeers have come in? Boxing is a gold-plated, diamond-studded game, a major industry.

Now we will glance at the Shea-Rosenberg championship match, to analyze the racketeers in action. Phil Rosenberg was a clever little fighter, and one night, at a small club, he was sighted by Harry "Champ" Segal, a former pugilist. Segal fancied Rosenberg and became his manager.

Rosenberg's record, so far as could be learned, was clean then. One night, according to the story the wise men tell, Segal walked into a Broadway cafe. Seated at a table there he saw Madden and another man, commonly known as "Frenchy." They invited Segal over.

"A sweet fighter, your boy Rosenberg," said one.

"We're coming in for 25 per cent of him," either Madden or "Frenchy" is said to have remarked. Segal knew his fight racket and he let them come in. That is the process so common nowadays, which is technically known as "muscling."

CAREER HIGHLY SOLVENT
Rosenberg and those behind him found his career highly solvent, and when the match with Eddie Shea was made, they were determined to keep it solvent. Before the fight was known among the betting gentry just what the result would be.

It seemed a good fight, so good that the fans cheered and swore later by the result. Shea fought bravely and hard, and then in the fourth round he dropped, ever so casually, his good left hand. Rosenberg bored in and Shea was dropped to the canvas for the count.

The crowd believed the knockout, but referee Haley didn't. And neither did the gamblers. Odds of from 6 to 1 to 10 to 1 had been offered at ringside that Shea would be knocked out in just the round it happened. When sure-thing gamblers offered odds at the last minute before a fight, it can only mean one thing: There are conflicting stories of what happened. The one generally accredited to Ray Alvin, Shea's manager, is this:

Emphasizing Alvin's demand that the fight be thrown. His answer was: "Go to hell." But instead of going there, two gunmen walked into Shea's dressing-room just before the last preliminary had finished, and passed out an order: "You take a dive in the fourth."

FOUR GUNMEN AT RINGSIDE
When Shea entered the ring, the story continues, there were not two, but four gunmen directly behind him in the dressing-room. They grinned at Shea and patted their gun pockets. He took the count.

The aftermath is record. Shea was barred from boxing again in New York State. The Boxing Commission kept Rosenberg in mind. During the first part of 1927, while he yet held the bantam title, he was to meet Bushy Graham at Madison Square Garden.

The mob was at work. Rosenberg came in, not a bantam, but a full-fledged featherweight. Yet Bushy Graham's manager did not claim the title. Graham fought the fight and lost. Later, as an upshot of the matter, Rosenberg and Graham were suspended for a year on the charge of making a dual financial arrangement. Segal lost his licence.

Whether Eddie Shea was intimidated in the earlier match or not, the reported methods mirror accurately a common procedure. The gunmen use intimidation when more amiable methods fail. More than one boxer in the last several years has taken a knockout because the smell of a muzzle congealed his ethics.

GO MUCH FARTHER
Sometimes the robbers go farther than that. Unable to force a fighter to reason, they have been known to intimidate referees. And during the early months of this year they kidnapped one manager and held him prisoner in a hotel room. A hotel while his fighter went, as the boys so picturesquely describe it, "into the tank."

Some of those behind Rosenberg tried intimidation with a promoter in Chicago. The bantam was barred in New York, but he could still fight in clubs of Illinois. A match was made for him with Bud Taylor. Rosenberg put up a $12,000 forfeit that he would make the weight.

Rosenberg didn't make the weight, but his confederates refused to worry. They reasoned with stalwart Jim Mullen, the promoter, he couldn't call off the fight, they argued; he had advertised it extensively. It was a popular match, a championship match; he had sold a lot of tickets.

But Jim Mullen wouldn't reason and he wouldn't give back the $12,000 forfeit. The fight was off. The bulldozing tactics began. But for once they didn't work. Mullen kicked the Madden mob out of Chicago and ordered them to take their pugilist back to New York.

The Chicago mob showed how the racketeers could be handled, but for one Mullen there are a dozen weaker vessels among the squared circle conspirators.

And sometimes it can cause trouble. The day's racketeers have no trouble; it is easier to take a little cut in the bag.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND COMMERCE
OTTAWA, CANADA

October 4th, 1930.

To My Fellow Citizens,
In Every Part of the Dominion.

To Give Canadians Work, Buy Canadian Products!

To-day the opportunity is yours to render your country a service of inestimable value. And you can do it absolutely without cost to yourself in time or money. Exercise a little intelligent discrimination in your daily buying, and the thing is done!

As you know, thousands upon thousands of your fellow Canadians are out of work. Unemployment, always a serious problem when it occurs, is more serious than ever just now, not only because it has lasted so long and been so widespread, but because of the unusually large numbers who, by reason of it, are being forced to suffer real hardships.

And it is all so unnecessary, so easily preventable!

Every year for the past few years Canada has been importing $800,000,000 worth of merchandise that she might just as well have been producing from her own mines, on her own farms, or in her own factories. Some things of course, like raw cotton and raw rubber, she must import. But making due allowance for such items, the fact remains that $800,000,000 of her annual imports have been of a class or kind that she was quite capable of producing for herself.

With the aid of statistics giving the annual value of Canadian factory production and the number of persons employed therein, it requires little figuring to show that every $5,600 worth of goods turned out has meant a job for one person. Assuming that something close to that ratio would hold good as the average for all classes of products, it follows that were we to produce in Canada the $800,000,000 worth of merchandise that we have been importing unnecessarily, we would be giving direct employment to 147,527 workers more than are now employed, to say nothing of the thousands of others to whom employment would come indirectly, as a result of this new stimulus to business in general.

Now do you see how true it is that were we all to practise a little intelligent discrimination in our daily buying, our unemployment problem would quickly and permanently disappear?

Every time we buy an imported article, when we might just as easily have found a Canadian article to serve our purpose equally well, we are helping to do some fellow Canadian out of a job, and making the job of some foreign workman just that much more secure! Conversely, every time we purposely give the preference to a Canadian article, we are helping to create employment for Canadian workers, and doing our bit towards making Canada as a whole more prosperous!

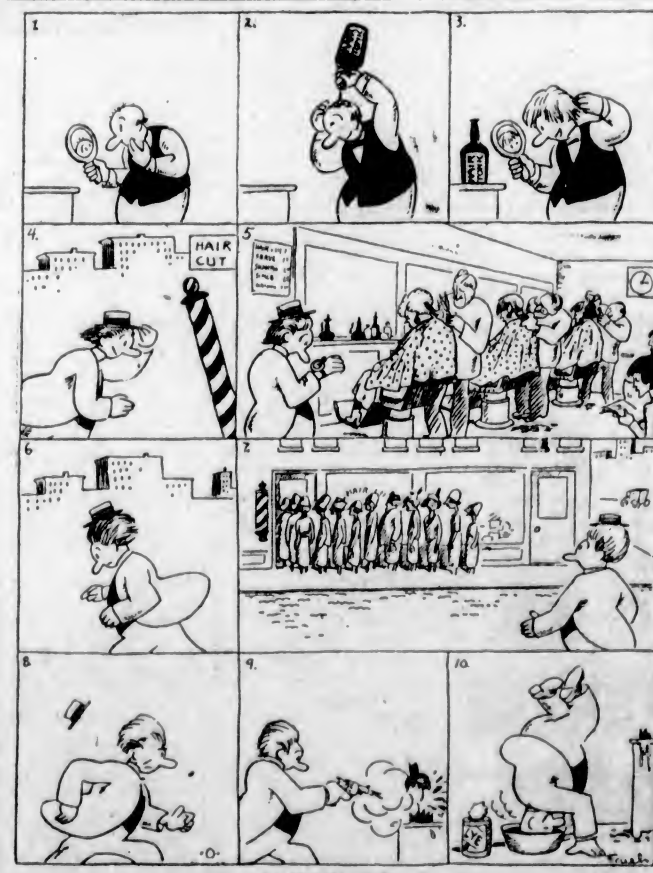

Think it over! Discuss it with your friends! Study it if you will not only from the standpoint of patriotism and charity, but from the standpoint of self-interest. The farther you go into it the more convinced you will become that giving Canadian products a preference over foreign products is the common sense thing to do.

Very sincerely yours,

H. H. Stevens
Minister of Trade and Commerce.

RETURNS TO PACIFIC COAST FROM FAR EAST

One of the delegates to the Pacific Loggers' Congress is Clyde S. Martin, of the Forest Service in India. Mr. Martin recently arrived from the Far East. He is well known to Western loggers, having been employed here before going to India for the British Forest Service. Mr. Martin attended the congress three years ago. He has been in India for ten years, during which time he has thoroughly surveyed the timber resources in India and worked out a forest policy. Mr. Martin does not expect to return to India. "When I left the Northwest ten years ago on my first assignment, I had no idea that I would remain away ten years," said Mr. Martin yesterday. "I have been urged to sign a new contract and remain there another three years, but have decided not to accept. I think I have remained away from the Northwest long enough. However, the work I have been doing in India has been extremely interesting and it has been a wonderful experience."

BROADWAY SUCCESS COMES TO DOMINION

Technicolor Production of "Follow Thru" Features Charles Rogers and Nancy Carroll

Inspired by a pretty and famous woman athlete, produced by America's great stage general, filled with catchy songs, pepped with screaming comedy, revealing in heart-tugging romance, "Follow Thru" swept Broadway off its feet, kept Schwab and Mandel, its producers, hosts to an entertainment-hungry world. But now "Follow Thru" is on the screen, and to all the charms of the sensational stage production, Paramount has added those delightful screen favorites, Charles Rogers and Nancy Carroll.

"Follow Thru" is a musical slice of country club life, rippling with comedy situations, throbbing with tingling love story, and it's all in Technicolor. Patrons who see it at the Dominion Theatre, starting today for three days, will see even more of a show than did the thousands who paid five and six dollars a seat to see it in New York.

COLUMBIA PICTURE IS PACKED WITH THRILLS

Ken Maynard outdoes himself in riding stunts in "Senor Americano," his latest talking picture for Universal, which will be shown at the Columbia Theatre today.

Opportunity for opening up a new field of stunt riding is afforded by the Spanish-Californian festival scenes, which play an important and colorful part in the picture.

In these scenes Maynard rides his famous trick horse, "Tarzan." In addition to the riding, there is plenty of action in the picture, a feature being a fierce sword duel between Maynard and his rival in love.

Maynard plays the part of a young United States cavalry officer who falls in love with a beautiful Spanish-Californian girl, portrayed by Cathryn Crawford.

"CHASING RAINBOWS" IS BACK-STAGE STORY

Bessie Love and Charlie King play together again in "Chasing Rainbows," an original story for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by Bess Meredyth, which opens at the Playhouse Theatre today. That should be welcome news to those who have seen this couple in "The Broadway Melody." "Chasing Rainbows" is a backstage story with real human interest, and it is doubtful if there is another pair of players on the Cinema Coast who can handle a vehicle of this kind with such finesse and artistry as these two.

Charles Rlesner, a famous character as well as a splendid director, who is thoroughly familiar with this aspect of theatrical life, directed the production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. This is a picture that will delight every class of theatregoers.

COLISEUM A special musical score

THEATRE was composed for "Ingagi" by Edward Gage, and is entirely in keeping with the weird character of this picture which is now showing at the Coliseum Theatre. The beating heart of Africa is embodied in the musical theme with its recurrent effects of long-tones and similar sounds. Mr. Gage has composed the scores of a number of operettas, including "Foot of Clay," "Quarter to Four," "The Oyster Pirate," and "The Call of the Marching Men." The lyrics and librettos of all these were written by Adam Hull Shirik, who adapted "Ingagi." Thus he and Gage were associated once more in this remarkable picture.

"LONDON CALLING" IS BRITISH PRODUCTION

The variety stage has never placed before the public entertainment of equal magnitude as "London Calling," the Cine radio review made by British International Pictures, Ltd., a revue bristling with business and social comedies and spectacular wonders. Never before has such an imposing and talented array of stars appeared in any British talkie, the whole production made in close co-operation with such well-known theatrical impresarios as Andre Charlot, Paul Murray and Jack Hubert.

SACRED FLAME MAKES AN ABSORBING STORY

Pauline Frederick's third triumphal talking picture is "The Sacred Flame," the Vitaphone production in which the distinguished actress will appear at the Columbia Theatre next Monday. This absorbing story is an adaptation of the celebrated play of W. Somerset Maugham, and deals with the strange events which take place in a single English household, culminating in a murder mystery, the denouement of which comes with a shock of amazement and pity. The action of the story includes a magnificent London church wedding, many scenes at the Croydon Airfield and in the stately home which is the victim of fate.

"Hell's Island," a fast-action, colorful drama the famous French Foreign Legion, released by Columbia Pictures Corporation, will open at the Playhouse Theatre next week for a six days' run with the popular Jack Holt and Ralph Graves in the leading roles. From the very first scene of the French Foreign Legion plodding its weary way across the sands of the Sahara to the breath-taking climax, the picture spells entertainment in capital letters. All the elements have been skillfully interwoven and what, at first, would seem to be a comedy almost verging on farce, develops into one of the most powerful dramatic stories seen on the screen in a long time.

Larkins: "What is the distinction between verse and poetry?" Bardley: "Well, if you can understand it it's verse, and if you can't understand it it's poetry!"

BEBE DANIELS SEEN IN DRAMATIC ROLE

"Lawful Larceny," Showing at Capitol Theatre, Gives Popular Star Big Chance

"Lawful Larceny," Radio Pictures, starring Bebe Daniels, opens at the Capitol Theatre today.

According to advance notices, the picture is as intriguing as the title, presenting Miss Daniels in a new role—that of a wife whose husband tumbles from the "straight and narrow" path.

Kenneth Thomson, stage favorite, plays opposite Miss Daniels as the husband. Lowell Sherman, debonair Lothario of "He Knew Women," enacts a featured part. He also directed the picture.

"Lawful Larceny" was adapted by Samuel Shipman.

The cast includes Olive Tell, Purcell Pratt, Lou Payne, Bert Roach, Maude Turner Gordon, Helene Millard and Charles Coleman.

"AFRICA SPEAKS" TO SHOW ALL NEXT WEEK

One of the least known and most interesting of African tribes are the pygmies who inhabit the Turi Forest of the Belgian Congo. Despite the fact that these little people—who average in height from fifty to fifty-seven inches—wear sticks through their noses, they are highly intelligent, says Paul L. Hoefer, noted explorer, who recently returned from an extended trip in the jungle.

Hoefer shows many interesting photographic studies of these pygmies in "Africa Speaks," showing all next week at the Dominion Theatre.

What Today Means

"LIBRA"

If October 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 a.m. to 8:15 and 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. There are more misadventures than prosperity on this date. Toys of amusement will be much in evidence, and you will flit from objective to objective, matching at the shadow and forgetting the substance. An uncertain evening, which will be full of startling surprises.

Children born on this October 23 will have rather selfish natures, as the astrological influences incline them to be hard and somewhat careless as to the feelings of others. They will be self-reliant, industrious and ingenious. They should have good vitalities and strong nerves. An insight to your character may be gleaned through the things you do not do, and the characteristics which you do not possess. You never lose your temper, you never refuse to help a "down and outer," you never refuse to do a good turn, you never go back on a friend, and you never make an enemy. You are not a snob, you are not a bully, you are not a hypocrite and you are not a physical, moral or mental coward. You find that there is more profit in coaxing than in kicking—and more friends to be made through praise and flattery than through criticism or "slams." You have your treasures, and bear your troubles and losses alone.

You have too strenuous a soul to wish for cheap successes, and you are willing to place cornerstones of sacrifice underneath the castles of your dreams. You do not dislike or try to evade the hours of thrashing work before you can receive the adulation of the captains and the kings. The pronoun "I," however, does not predominate in your mind, nor drip from your tongue. You are interested in other people, in their hopes and ambitions, and in the general welfare of the world. Your state of happiness is found in your state of mind. You love tenderly, sincerely and loyally, and are faithful in your family life.

"Shay, pardon me, offisher, but where am I?" "You're on the corner of Dorchester and Port Street." "Cut out the details. What town am I in?"

THIS SAFE BABY MILK SOLVES VACATION NEED

Do I dare take the baby? How often I have heard anxious mothers ask that question—mothers who have needed the change of a restful vacation at the lake or seashore but have been afraid to expose a tiny baby to the dangers of a doubtful milk supply.

Well, this summer Mother can go—and take the baby—with a carefree heart and a clear conscience. For some of the greatest authorities are now recommending as the very best milk for bottle-fed babies, a milk that you can get anywhere and that can't possibly cause those intestinal infections that so often come from milk obtained in localities where the health precautions are not absolutely reliable.

Safe—and more digestible

This baby-saving milk is unsweetened evaporated milk. It is absolutely safe because it is first sealed in air-tight cans and then sterilized, destroying all bacteria. It is safe wherever you buy it—you can get it at the most primitive country store and know that your baby's milk will be perfectly pure and wholesome.

And not only pure. For this wonderful milk is actually more digestible than milk in any other form. It is softer, flatter curd, marvellously like those formed by mother's milk. And the large fat globules that make ordinary milk hard to digest are broken up by a process called "homogenization," each one divided into a thousand infinitesimally tiny ones that cannot tax the baby's delicate stomach.

Vitamins and minerals too
Unsweetened evaporated milk is the full nutritional equal of the best bottled milk. It contains all the vitamins that any milk is dependent on to supply, needing only the usual supplements such as orange juice and cod-liver oil. And it is a splendid source of the minerals that build the bones and teeth.

You can get the best of evaporated milk anywhere by simply asking for Carnation Milk. The famous milk from "contented cows" is especially good for babies because of the care that is taken to protect it at every step from the dairy farm till it reaches your baby's bottle. Its quality is so uniform that every feeding has the correct food value.

You can't imagine, till you have tried it, how convenient this milk is. Just think—you don't have to pasteurize it, for it is already sterilized. You just mix it with pure water and sugar (or simple formula) and pour it into the bottles.

Send for Carnation Baby-Feeding Chart, which tells more about this superior milk. Let your physician give you the correct formula and then rack up Baby and go vacationing to your heart's content. Just drop me a post card and I'll send the chart; also my Cook Book. Address me in care of the Carnation Co., Limited, 134 Abbott Street, Vancouver, B.C.

AND REMEMBER

When travelling or vacationing, the safest milk for baby's bottle is Carnation. It nourishes perfectly, too, and is more digestible than cow's milk in any other form.

Happy Days

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Some fall in love and do not know it while to the world they plainly show it.

—Old Mother Nature.

Impy was beside himself with happiness. It seemed to him that the whole Great World had changed. Whereas only such a short time before it had been a gloomy old world, it now was the brightest old world imaginable. And it was all because a certain little chipmunk, little Miss Frisky, had allowed him to touch noses. Such a thrill as ran all over Impy when he felt the touch of little Miss Frisky's nose. Then little Miss Frisky jumped back and ran. Impy ran after her.

"Don't run away!" he begged. "Don't run away!"

Little Miss Frisky seemed not to hear. She dodged behind a big stone. Impy hurried after her and almost ran into her. There she sat behind that big stone. Once more they touched noses. Once more little Miss Frisky ran and Impy ran after her. It was like a game. Presently, Impy noticed that each time little Miss Frisky ran a shorter distance. At last there came a time when after touching noses she didn't run.

"Did that big fellow with whom you fought hurt you much?" she asked.

"No," boasted Impy. "Of course he hurt me some, but I'm all right now."

"It was awful," said little Miss Frisky; and the way she said it made Impy tingle all over. "I was afraid he would kill you, because he was so big and strong."

"He—he did make me run," confessed Impy.

"Of course he did!" said little Miss Frisky brightly. "I never was so glad in my life as when finally you ran away."

Such a funny look as crossed the face of Impy. "But running away meant that I was beaten," he protested. "Do you mean that you were glad to see me beaten?"

"Of course not! How silly!" exclaimed little Miss Frisky. "I was glad to see you run, because I knew if you didn't you would be killed. And I didn't want you to be killed."

"Why not?" said Impy.

Little Miss Frisky pretended not to hear that question. "I ran away and hid from that big fellow," said she. "He hunted and hunted for me but he couldn't find me. I made sure that he had gone away before I showed myself all."

Little Miss Frisky leaned over and gently licked one of Impy's wounds. Impy almost wished that he had a dozen more of those big fellows. "You are so brave," whispered little Miss Frisky.

Impy did his best to look the part. "Do you know what I was fighting for?" he asked.

"Tell me," said little Miss Frisky.

"I was fighting for you," said Impy.

"Not really," replied little Miss Frisky.

"Yes, really," retorted Impy. "You see, I was afraid you would go off with him and I wanted to drive him away. I didn't want you to go away. You won't will you?"

"No," said little Miss Frisky. "I won't if you don't want me to. Are you happy?"

"I never was so happy in all my life," replied Impy.

"Neither was I," said little Miss Frisky.

And this was the beginning of many happy days.

A fat woman elbowed her way through the crowd, jabbing first one person and then another. Finally she gave one hearty man an unusually hard thump, and asked: "I say, does it make any difference which car I take to Mount Royal Cemetery?"

"Not to me, madam," was the reply.

The Other Bullet

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

CHAPTER XXI

The district attorney's small, wiry figure jerked forward as if he were a mechanical toy whose spring had been violently released.

"I object to any such statement being made as if it were a fact," he rasped. "With all due respect to the learned professor—the tone of his words conveyed a scarcely concealed sneer—"there is such a thing as common sense. Unless the eminent Dr. Kurner was even more prompt than Mr. Piper and arrived at the scene of the murder before it was committed, he couldn't possibly know that a man sitting dead at his desk had been chasing himself around the house and then set down to get himself shot. He's foisting his hare-brained opinions on this jury, attempting to befuddle them with his sounding technicalities! I object to this line of testimony as sheer opinion—and far-fetched opinion at that."

"Now, Mr. Linforth," the judge said soothingly, "you know as well as I do that a witness qualified as an expert is not restricted to questions of fact but is allowed to express his opinion." He surveyed the district attorney with kindly severity, as if he were trying to quiet a child in a tantrum.

Kurtner looked down upon the tumult with frigid detachment. He cast a single bleak glance at Linforth from behind his glittering eyeglasses. They were polished until they shone like clear ice, and his voice, when he turned to the judge, was sharp and pointed as an icicle.

"I am not concerned with opinions, if your honor please," he said. "I am stating a demonstrable fact, and in this case an ascertained fact." Do you mean to say that, unlike the rest of humanity, it is impossible for you to make a mistake? Linforth clutched at scorn as a covering for his uneasiness.

"Human fallibility has nothing to do with it," Kurtner said coldly. "I am willing to say that a mistake is impossible—because chemistry makes no mistakes." Travis had listened with the restrained triumph of a bridge player who is about to make a nine-spot re-entry round in dummy. But the jury would not relish being told that chemistry makes no mistakes—especially as they knew nothing about chemistry. His keen face tightened imperceptibly as he turned to Linforth.

"I don't believe I have yet told the district attorney that the direct examination of the witness is closed," he said with stinging politeness. "You will have the opportunity of cross-examining him later—if you care to." He hoped the jury had caught the implication that the cross-examination was a dangerous and futile proceeding. "Will you just tell the jury the method used to arrive at the conclusion which you have stated, Dr. Kurtner?"

"I first extracted sufficient blood from the handkerchief to enable me to make a test of its chemical constituents. It is a well-known fact, familiar to all students of modern bio-chemistry, that prolonged and violent physical activity releases lactic acid into the bloodstream. The presence of this lactic acid results in a marked acceleration of rigor mortis. In other words, the body of a person who dies immediately after a chase stiffens almost immediately, whereas the body of a person who was inactive in the period immediately preceding death does not begin to stiffen until four or five hours have elapsed.

"Mr. Piper's observation of the peculiar stiffness of the body of Mortison led me to apply the lactic acid test. The reaction was positive. The physical characteristic of immediate stiffening of the body, supported by chemical analysis, thus led to the conclusion that the deceased was not shot while sitting quietly at his desk, but had been engaged in violent exercise, such as running."

"We are here concerned with two shots from two different weapons. In this connection two questions arise: which shot was fired first, and which shot was responsible for the death of the deceased? Comparison of the bullets shows that of the two shots, one through the jugular vein and one through the lung, only the lung shot was fired from the pistol in evidence as that fired by Mrs. Everett."

"Either shot might have proved fatal—but the shot through the jugular vein would bring death almost immediately. The shot through the lung, on the other hand, while it might have been a mortal wound, would not cause immediate death, although it would certainly suspend any violent activity on the part of the victim. After such a shot, Mortison would certainly have been incapable of vigorous exercise. Yet the blood analysis shows that death occurred immediately after extreme physical activity."

"That is the situation with which we are confronted. Those are the elements of the problem. It remains, not only to solve the problem, but to solve it in such a way that any possible alternative solutions are eliminated. It is not enough to say what might have happened, but we must determine what actually did happen."

"Let us consider first the hypothesis that Mrs. Everett first shot Mortison through the lung and that he was later shot through the jugular vein by some person unknown. We must then imagine that the victim, having been shot through the lung, later ran for a considerable distance, returned to his desk, and there received the second and instantly fatal wound. Such activity on his part, however, would be physically impossible."

"We are therefore driven back on the only rational reconstruction of the actual event." Every member of the jury was leaning forward with eyes fixed on Kurtner's face. Through his arid, unadorned sentences he had somehow contrived to place the scene vividly before them. Those in the back row tilted forward, peering across their fellows' shoulders. A woman caught her breath sharply in an audible hiss.

The tension of approaching climax held them rigid. In the silent courtroom the buzz of a large bluebottle fly against the window screen was as loud as the engine of an airplane. Linforth ran a finger around his moist collar and yanked it open with a sound of rending cloth. Max reached across the table top, oblivious of spectators, covering Alene's hand with a firm grip. She turned to him with a smile of singular sweetness, as if it were he and not she who needed reassurance. Peter alone noted that the metal clasp of her belt was slowly bending under her clenched fingers.

"There are no alternatives to fact," Kurtner said. He was unaware of the strained attention focused upon him. He spoke with his customary air of academic authority, as if he were discussing a theorem in Euclid, unconcerned with human lives. "When we speak of choosing among probabilities, we are merely admitting our ignorance of certain factors in the problem."

"In reality, there are no probabilities—only certainties. If it can be shown that only one thing could have happened, then that thing happened, as surely as—or rather, far more surely than—if I saw it with my eyes. When a given set of facts can be accounted for in one way and no other, there is no more choice open to us than if, given two sides of a triangle, we are asked to draw the third. The path is clearly marked out for us, and there is only one line to follow."

"In the case before us, Mortison ran to the cottage with an energy which implies flight from pursuit, and had reached his desk when he was overtaken and killed. Let us suppose for a moment that he had caught sight of Mrs. Everett, and was fleeing from her. But even assuming that, though physically much stronger than the woman, he would not have turned and wrenched the pistol from her instead of running away, and further assuming that both he and Mrs. Everett were at the ranch house and not at the lodge when the chase began, there is still not sufficient distance between the two buildings to account for the degree of physical exhaustion indicated by the blood analysis."

"Now let us assume that Mrs. Everett fired two shots, the second lodging in Mortison's lung. The course of the bullet being almost directly from the front to back, and that some unknown person later fired another bullet into his jugular vein. In that case the body would have been found lying forward over the table. While sitting in the chair, the arms and back prevented it from falling backward. But if it was no longer supported by the chair structure, but was lying across the table where it fell after the shot through the lung, the body of the bullet from the side would have toppled the body at an angle to the table towards the left."

"Mrs. Everett also noted, without catching the significance of the circumstances, that Mortison did not move or look up between her first and second shots. Mrs. Everett's statement on this point may be accepted, first because she did not emphasize it as noteworthy but only noticed it as curious and puzzling, and secondly because she herself admitted that she killed Mortison. At that time she was not in possession of all the facts, and was guilty of the fallacy of post hoc ergo propter hoc. She reasoned that she had shot Mortison; Mortison was dead; therefore she killed him."

Kurtner restored the pocket lens within its tortoise-shell cover and deftly fastened the straps of the brief case on his lap. He leaned back in the witness chair and his voice dropped with a last hammer stroke of finality.

"Only one conclusion is possible," he said. "The defendant did not kill Mortison—because at the time she fired upon him, he was already dead!"

The value of Bovril in cooking is very great. A little added to soups and gravies puts real Beef strength into them; not merely coloring.

When cold meats have to be hashed or warmed up a little Bovril makes a truly wonderful difference and puts life into them.

Just put a little Bovril into the next lot of soup you make, or pep up the next lot of gravy with Bovril and you will never again be without it.

MIMES AND MASQUES ANNOUNCE TWO PLAYS

"The Pigeon," by John Galsworthy, and "The Romantic Age," by A. A. Milne, have been selected by the Mimes and Masques' Guild as the plays to be presented by the organization for the February and Springtime programmes.

These two will be the first three-act plays to be presented, and it is felt they will nicely round out the 1930-31 season's programme, which is to open with the performance of three one-act plays on November 6 and 7, namely, "Birthdays of the Infants," "The Romanians," and "Op o' My Thumb."

Plans indicate that the November production will be an outstanding performance. Very artistic sets are being designed for "The Birthdays of the Infants" and "The Romanians." The former will be played effectively before curtains, with the picturesque costumes of the court of Spain in the seventeenth century. The latter play has a charming garden setting, as a background for eighteenth century costumes. The third play, "Op o' My Thumb," is staged in the interior of a laundry, and provides a contrast to the other colorful scenes.

Harry Dee, the production manager, is bending all his energies towards making this performance a success. He is being assisted by Claude Campbell, in charge of scenery construction; Miss Alward and Miss Hamilton Smith, who are looking after the costumes and the latter play has a charming properties.

Even Cleopatra's justly famed toilettries could never hide the tell-tale symptoms of intestinal sluggishness and neglect.

You, who "take a pill" at regular intervals, will learn that the day of reckoning must come. Violent, harsh laxatives are internally destructive. Eventually you pay a staggering price for temporary relief. Yet the cost of permanent relief is small. And the source well known. Not weakening diets, torturous treatment—just Nature's means for correcting that common trouble . . . Intestinal Fatigue. This elemental means is eating Fleischmann's Yeast . . . the corrective food endorsed by leading specialists and world-famed physicians.

TO BE IN AT THE DEATH
One who is present at the celebration of the completion of any particular undertaking may properly be said to be in at the death.
This is a rather anomalous but correct use of the phrase, in a sense which should really make it read "at the birth" instead of "at the death." However, that is the way words are; and here, it is really, neither the sense of birth nor of death that is embodied in the use of

RAYMOND WILL LECTURE NOV. 4

Author of "Tell England" and "Atlantic" to Speak
Here

PLANS ARE COMPLETE

Ernest Raymond, distinguished novelist, dramatist, and author of "Tell England" and "Atlantic," which recently drew crowds to the Coliseum Theatre, is visiting Canada under the auspices of the National Council of Education and will lecture in Victoria on Tuesday, November 4, at the Shriners' Hall at 8 p.m.

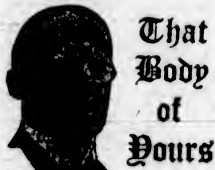

Mr. Raymond's subject will be "The Spirit of England," and his lecture will be based, to a great extent, upon his latest novel, "The Jesting Army," which has been hailed by critics as one of the best war books ever written.

The final arrangements for Mr. Raymond's lecture, which promises to be one of the most popular events of the winter season in Victoria, were made at a special meeting of the local committee of the National Council of Education, held in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening.

BELIEVES IN CANADA

Ernest Raymond requires no introduction to Canada. Not only was he an outstanding member of the British delegation to the council's Victoria-Vancouver Conference on "Education and Leisure" in April 1929, but he visited a number of cities, both after landing at Saint John on his way to Victoria and after the conference. For the past two years Mr. Raymond has acted in the capacity of honorary director to the English Summer School of the Overseas Education League.

Mr. Raymond is not content that he should merely visit Canada from coast to coast. He believes in Canada and insists on making the Dominion better known to Great Britain, on doing everything in his power to foster interest in each other and to better appreciate each other's problems and outlook. More than this, Mr. Raymond is one of a growing body of distinguished men and women in Great Britain, whose recollections of their visit to the Dominion as the council's guests are such that no opportunity is ever lost of furthering the work begun by Sir Henry Newbolt and Sir Michael Sadler in 1923, the purpose of which they themselves subsequently reaffirmed and restated by their own visits.

LEAVING YOURSELF OPEN TO PNEUMONIA

One of the discouraging things about many apparently slight ailments is the way in which they undermine the patient's strength so that a serious condition—often follows, and the patient often has a hard battle for his life.

This is very frequently the case following an attack of influenza, or where a patient is "run down" from some long-standing infection as accompanied bad teeth, bad tonsils, or infected sinuses.

You can readily understand that if you have any of these conditions that your resisting force, your fighting force, is in a continuous battle and must gradually become weakened.

You often see this where the individual has some infected teeth. He says he doesn't feel too badly, hasn't any pains, and so doesn't feel like parting with his own teeth and getting artificial ones.

Perhaps a year or two later he begins to have some twinges or pains in the knee, elbow, ankle, hip, or other joint, and then after consultation with his doctor, including the showing of his X-ray films, he has the infected teeth removed. The pains gradually disappear within one to six months time, and that is all he thinks about it. But what about that year, or two years, from the time he learned of his infected teeth and the appearance of the pains in the joints?

During all this time his resistance forces were continuously engaged in a battle with the organisms of bad teeth, and apparently kept ahead of them until the pain appeared. The appearance of the pains meant that the organisms from the bad teeth had gained the upper hand.

What is my point?
That during those two years, had he been attacked by pneumonia, he would have had just that much less resisting power with which to fight it.

If pneumonia attacks you, following some acute ailment such as influenza or some intestinal condition, there is nothing with which you can reproach yourself. If, however, you have some condition such as bad teeth, tonsils, sinuses, and do nothing about it, should you be attacked by pneumonia, you may have ample cause for regret.

You often hear the remark "He went into the hospital with this or that ailment, but it has developed into pneumonia."

What really happens is that the patient is so run down that he is "wide open" for an attack of pneumonia.

HANBURY MILL CLOSES

VANCOUVER, Oct. 22.—About 190 men were thrown out of work tonight when the J. Hanbury & Co. Ltd. lumber mill at the south end of Granville bridge, closed down.

The mill will remain shut down until conditions in the lumber industry change, according to L. M. Hanbury, only a skeleton crew being maintained to handle lumber already cut.

The office staff will be cut down in proportion to the layoff of mill hands. A payroll of approximately $6,000 a week is affected by the shutdown.
